SALVATION ARMY HOLDS OUTING AT NABNASSET POND

SALVATION ARMY SUNDAY SCHOOL CHILDREN READY FOR ANNUAL OUTING

Eighty children and 20 grown-ups, members of the Salvation Army Sunday school, are enjoying an outing at Nabnasset pond today.

The outing is the largest in the history of the local branch of the Salvation Army and is under the direction of Commandant Captain Farrar and Young People's Sergeant Major Bell. Members of the party gathered at Salvation Army headquarters in Appleton street at 9 o'clock this morning and made the trip to the pond by auto trucks, leaving the city at 9:30 o'clock. The trip was made slowly, the childroen enjoying the auto ride almost as much as the outing itself, and the trucks did not reach the outing grounds until 10:30 o'clock.

Upon arrival at the grounds, a short talk on safety precautions was given by the children by Capt. Farrar and a program of sports was immediately begun. A ball game between picked teams was first on the program and members of the winning teams were awarded suitable prizes.

Races for boys and girls, classed according to their ages, followed and furnished a great deal of entertainment to the children participating.

Each member of the party brought with him or her a basket lunch and at noon the order was given to open the boxes and start lunching. When the boxes were emptied, the outing party was treated to watermelon and ice cream by the outing committee. Although dozens of watermelons had been taken for this purpose, the children's appetites were not satisfied until the last one had been cut and eaten. The watermelons were, without doubt, the features of the luncheon.

After luncheon a short rest period was ordered and older members of the party entertained the youngsters with interesting stories appropriate to the occasion.

When Capt. Abbott decided it was safe to resume activities, the sports program was resumed and games played. In each of the athletic contests prizes were awarded the winners. During the afternoon the children were permitted to bathe in the pond where coaches made this sport safe. They were also treated to boat rides about the pond.

The return trip will be made at 6 o'clock.

LOEB COUNSEL QUIZZES COP

Failed to Report All His Findings to Superiors, It Is Shown

CHICAGO, July 26. (By the Associated Press.)—Counsel for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb struck back today at the evidence for the state. For the first time since the opening Wednesday of the hearing which is to fix the penalty of the youthful slayers of Robert Frank, a state's witness was cross-examined at length by the defense.

Detective Sergeant Frank Gortland who yesterday told of conversations with Leopold in which the college student defendant revealed his reaction to the crime he had confessed, was stubbornly cross-examined by Attorney Clarence Darrow as to his experience as a policeman.

The witness was asked to read textually his shorthand notes of Leopold's statement that if he decided he would prefer life imprisonment to the gallows, he would "plead guilty before a friendly judge."

The action of the defense counsel was in the nature of a challenge of the testimony of Gortland, in which every statement was examined to the most minute detail.

It was Gortland, who yesterday, as the state's sixth or seventh witness before Chief Justice John R. Caverly of the criminal court, quoted Leopold as having declared murder to be no crime in his eyes.

It was brought out that Gortland made no mention of the "friendly judge" statement to his superiors in official reports, although he said he had revealed to Assistant State Attorney Joseph P. Savage and had talked about it with friends.

After an hour's cross examination, Gortland was temporarily withdrawn from the witness stand and ordered not to converse with any one in the court room while Jacob Weinstein, general manager of an optical establishment, was called by the state to identify the glasses found near the railroad culvert which yielded Frank's body.

Weinstein identified the glasses presented the state as corresponding exactly to the specifications called for on an envelope on which appeared the name Nathan Leopold, Jr.

Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defendants, announced that Dr. Henry is director of the Baker Foundation of Boston and is a specialist in juvenile delinquency. He said Dr. Glueck was formerly examining alienist at Sing Sing and more recently at the municipal court in New York. He, too, is active in juvenile cases.

CHICAGO, July 26. (By the Associated Press.)—Dr. William J. Healy of Boston and Dr. Benjamin Glueck, New York, alienists, were added to the staff of the defense today in the hearing of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers and murderers of 14-year-old Robert Frank.

Their presence, it was said, preceded a hard court fight for the lives of defendants in their innings next week.

WIDOW AND CONSUL

WASHINGTON, July 26.—State department officials prepared today to formally ask the Persian government to take immediate measures to protect American citizens in that country from attacks and insults from natives understood to be hostile against foreigners as a result of the killing of Major Robert Imbrie, American vice consul at Teheran, and developments following that affair.

Decision of the department to take this action followed receipt of advice from Joseph S. Kornfeld, American minister, telling of insults to Mrs. Imbrie, widow of the former consul, for which a young Persian was said to be responsible.

According to the minister's despatches, the Persian youth grabbed the veil worn by Mrs. Imbrie, attempting to tear it from her, and at the same time expectorating upon her person. The reported outrage was said to have occurred at Teheran last Tuesday.

A native policeman, reported to have been some distance from the place where Mrs. Imbrie was attacked, but who is believed to have witnessed the affair, made no attempt to protect her or interfere with her assailant, the despatch said.

The state department had already demanded a "precise statement" from Persia concerning the death of Major Robert Imbrie, vice consul. He was stoned to death at Teheran by natives who said he wore a Persian fez and attempted to photograph secret religious ceremonies.

Mrs. Imbrie was married in December.

Hard-Boiled Program Assigned to Lowell Military Contingents of the Artillery Line—Visiting Day at Camp Devens Tomorrow—Lowell Day Wednesday

(Special to The Sun) CAMP DEVENS, July 26.—The last hundred miles may be the hardest, but the first thirty are hard enough.

This has been one grand "Big Ben" all-week work of summer military training for B batterymen of Lowell, and A and C brother gunners of Haverhill and Lawrence, respectively. ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR THE MAYORALTY

Stephen C. Garrity today makes formal announcement of his candidacy for the office of mayor this year. In a statement prepared for the press he says among other things that if elected he proposes to devote his administration to the further upbuilding of the physical, mental and moral progress of the city.

He recognized that the interests of the direct taxpayers should be considered, but that the interests of the many thousands of indirect taxpayers should be considered much more diligently than has been the case in the past.

Mr. Garrity favors immediate action toward the erection of a new school in the South End district, a new Central bridge, a revision of the standards of value used in the assessing of commercial property and a definite program to cope with unemployment conditions.

"The New England town meeting still is my idea of community government and the closer we can hew to that line the better," says the candidate, "and rule by committees, commissions or city managers has no place in my theory of city government."

TAMMANY-HEARST FIGHT LIKELY OVER SMITH AND HYLAN

Wigwam Wants "Al" to Run for Governor Again—Publisher Favorable to Candidacy of Mayor—Tammany and Smith Both Silent

NEW YORK, July 26.—Ignition by Mayor John F. Hylan, who is now in California with William Randolph Hearst, that he might run for the democratic nomination for governor if the progressives demand it, caused a flurry in political circles today.

George W. Olney, the new leader of Tammany Hall, withheld comment. He recently urged Governor Smith to enter the race for re-election.

It is no secret that there is a wide political gap between the governor and the mayor.

The mayor has the confidence of Mr. Hearst. On Thursday the governor issued a statement at Albany in which he said that when the democratic party "needs advice it will go to the democrats for it and not to either a demagogue or crackpot."

Friends of Governor Smith who talked with him over the telephone learned that the executive would not talk for publication until he had seen the text of Mayor Hylan's statement.

NATIONAL GET OUT THE VOTE CLUB ORGANIZED AT WASHINGTON

Effort Will Be Made to Bring Out a Record Vote in Coming Election—Lawyer Michelet of Washington Has Gathered Valuable Statistics on the Subject

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Full registration and ballot in the presidential elections of all legally qualified American citizens is the aim of the National Get-Out-the-Vote club which has been formed as a result of the recent study made by Simon Michelet, a Washington attorney, political writer and statistician, which disclosed the remarkable fact that but 26,874,000, or nearly one-half, of the voters of the United States fail to perform their civic duty as electors.

New England, according to figures taken from the 1920 election returns, has a stay-at-home and absentee vote of 82 persons for every 100 who vote. Under the 1920 census 4,591,477 persons of 21 years and over were reported in the election, of which but 4,000,764 voted. Of the remaining number 940,704 were ineligible for voting because they were unnaturalized and for other reasons, thus leaving dropped to 17 per cent in some districts.

National Geographic Society

The National Geographic society states that although man is "the only writing animal," shorthand was known and used more than two thousand years ago, when Bibea Norem did precisely the sort of work for her boss, the Mesopotamian merchant, that the expert stenographer of today does for man who dictates his letters.

The fact that Bibea was a woman shows that the "equality of sex didn't have to be emphasized in those far back days. Bibea worked with soft clay as her pen, and a little rod of bone cut sharply at one end served as a pencil.

Recent discoveries indicate that Babylonian merchants kept strict tabs on their transactions in very much the same way as the accountants of today, and that these relations and signs took the place of the stenographic systems of today.

RICHARDS.

Out of a total of 2,411,507 persons of voting age in Massachusetts, only 1,013,711 voted. Of the remainder, there were 347,487 unqualified to vote and 350,309, or 85 stay-at-home and absentee voters for every 100 who voted.

In Vermont there were 120 stay-at-home for every 100 who voted in Maine, 113; Connecticut, 73; Rhode Island, 72; and New Hampshire, 45. It is pointed out by the purpose of rallying stay-at-home vote to the polls for a presidential election have been started in individual states and communities by political, civic and business organizations, this is the first effective effort to form a national organization. It is a revival of political men and groups of all political faiths in a nationwide move, and lays out the function that getting out

The freight having been removed, preparations were made to tow the ship from port to station. This was accomplished by fastening lifeboats to their rollers and then filling them with water while there was a shifting water ballast in the hull. All this was done yesterday afternoon during high tide so as the tide fell the big vessel easily went over the other way and thus rolled the wound out of water, so that this morning a new shuttle was being built over the wound and everything is favorable to making a big patch so that when the tide rises the ship and the ship will straighten and float into deep water ready for her trip to drydock.

lished by the Washington Post and Collier's Weekly: In 1896, 80 per cent of voters cast ballots; in 1900, 78 per cent; in 1912, 62 per cent, and in 1920, 50 per cent. Of that native-born American citizens appear to be among the worst offenders, as the census shows 21,000,000 more native-born voters than the total presidential

"It is hoped," M'Michelet said, "that as a result of the offer of co-operation received, a national non-political organization will be formed which will help to co-ordinate and expand the work that has been accomplished up to this time. All persons and organizations interested are invited to join the movement."

"Under the general scheme as outlined in a constitution of the National Get-Out-the-Vote club, a national campaign will be set on foot to take general charge of the nation-wide suffrage movement. There would also be state organizations, and smaller organizations in each congressional district, counties, cities, towns and precincts, which would, in a sense, be subsidiaries of the national association.

"Public men and women and political and civic business organizations are asked to join in the movement, without giving consideration to political affiliations. It is suggested that headquarters of the national association be established in the national capital and national officers elected. None of the officers would receive remuneration, and all funds, collected would be used exclusively in the campaign to get out the vote. Copies of

"Among the national organizations which have become interested in the suffrage movement are the National League of Women Voters, the National Security League, the American Defence Society, and many others. The organization of work along this line has been urged by a large number of public men of various political parties, and by leading newspapers and magazines in news columns, special articles and editorials. The problem also has received much attention by organizations of women, who since the granting of suffrage, have taken an even greater interest in the political and civic life of the country.

Until organization plans mature, the general office of the National Get-Out-the-Vote club will be at Room 719 Albee Building, Washington, D. C."

Hot Weather is Reducing Time

FOR WAISTLINE GOOD FOR BACK REDUCES HIPS FOR ABDOMEN

FAY MARBE ILLUSTRATING HER FAVORITE EXERCISES FOR REDUCING AND KEEPING THE WANDERING WAISTLINE IN PLACE.

BY MARIAN HALE
N.E.A. Service Writer

There's one thing to be said in favor of hot weather. It is better for reducing flesh than the more temperate climate we prefer for general living purposes.

"If you will keep up your exercises during July and August you can achieve truly marvelous results," says Fay Marbe, motion picture actress. "The thermometer will co-operate with you if you will let it. You will find it very easy to produce the perspiration that shows the flesh is melting, and you will not want so much rich food, which puts the pounds right back after you exercise them off," she explains. Here are some of the exercises she suggests:

Restores Waistline

"Place your left foot on a stool slightly lower than your hips. Bend the body forward until the head touches the knee, then as far backward as possible, first with one foot on the chair, then with the other. This is excellent for bringing back the wandering waistline."

"This one is good for the back. Place your knees closely together and bend forward until your head touches the floor, extending the arms full length straight in front of the knees. Keep the arms fully extended and straighten the body. Then bend back, resting the hands on the floor until the head touches the floor between the two hands."

"Don't do this one too often, she cautions, until you have accustomed your muscles to the strain."

Hands on Hips

"This one will make hipless gowns a possibility in your life," she promises. "Place the hands on the hips, the feet about 15 inches apart. Bend straight to the side, slowly, as far as you can. Then straighten the body slowly and bend to the other side."

"In this one keep the knees quite straight throughout and bend as far as possible each time. The motion should be slow and forceful, never jerky."

"To reduce the abdomen, stand erect, feet together, arms stretched full length above your head. Bend forward slowly, keeping your arms extended in a straight line with your body. When you have bent as far forward as possible, bring the arms forward toward the floor."

"Just one word of warning," she concludes. "Don't overdo at first and become discouraged later. If you will do each one 10 times a day consistently, you will get results."

Firpo shifted from one foot to the other but apparently did not trust his English sufficiently to reply.

Nelson, national manager for Senator La Follette, declared that "Mr. Lorenz is a La Follette man, resigned in order not to embarrass anyone nor be embarrassed." Both resignations were voluntary.

SUFFERED SINCE YOUNG GIRL

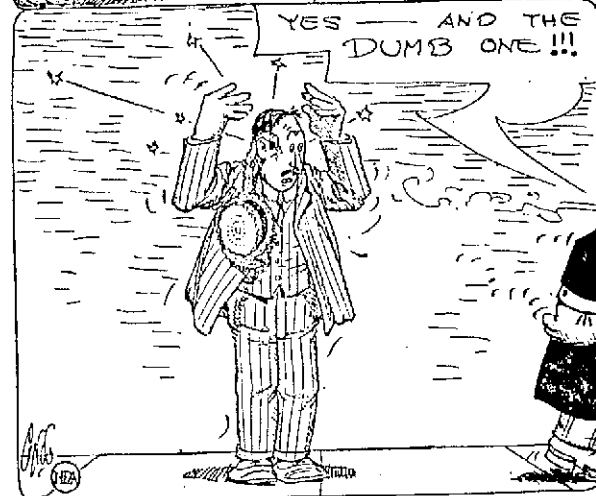

Words Failed to Express Benefit Received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Texas.—"Words can not express how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. Every month I would have cramps and headache, and I felt like I was freezing to death. I suffered in this way from the time I was a young girl, and all the doctors said was 'operation.' For months I had a tired, sleepy feeling all day, and when night would come I would be so nervous I couldn't stay in bed. Our druggist recommended the Vegetable Compound to my husband, and he bought four bottles. I have taken every one and I think I have a right to praise your medicine."—Mrs. J. B. HOLLEMAN, 2214 E. Marshal St., Greenville, Texas.

For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been used by women from girlhood through middle age. It is a dependable medicine for troubles common to women. Such symptoms as Mrs. Holleman had are relieved by correcting the cause of the trouble. For sale by druggists everywhere.

EVERETT TRUE

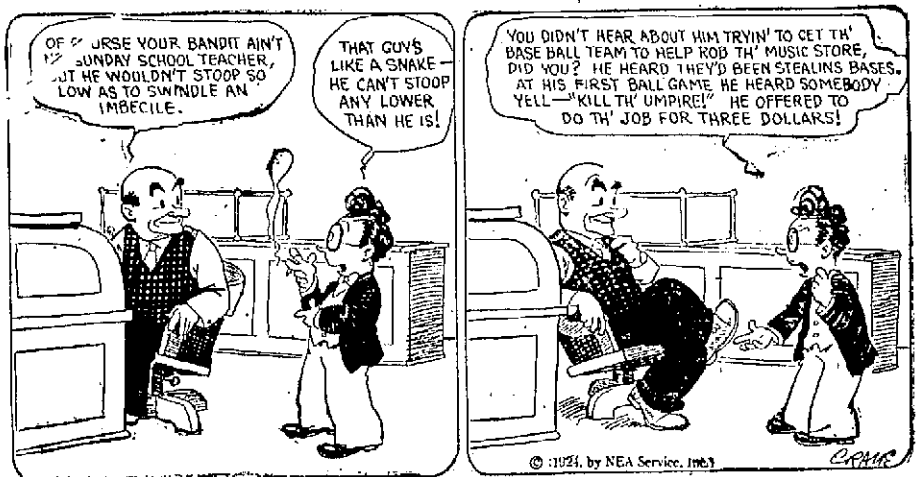

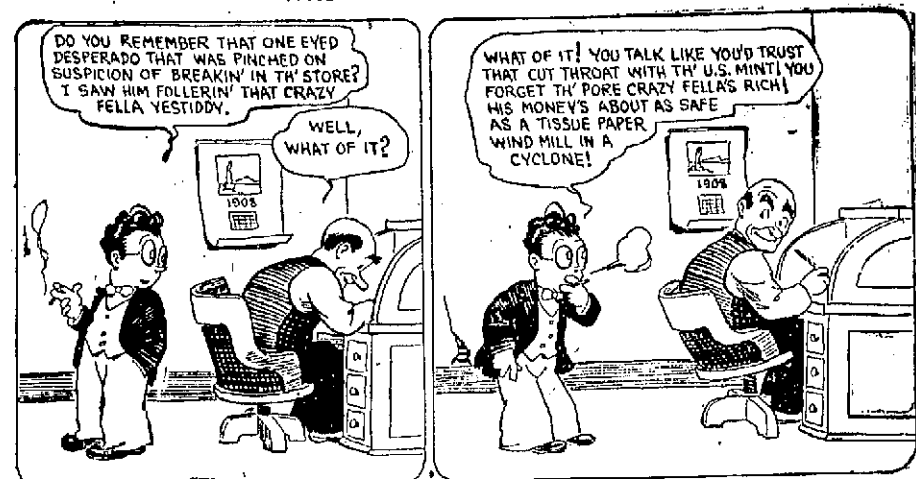

COMMON SENSE

When a merchant advertises his wares in a newspaper, he does not appeal to the paper, but to its readers. He solicits the patronage of those readers whether he agrees with the policy of the paper or not.

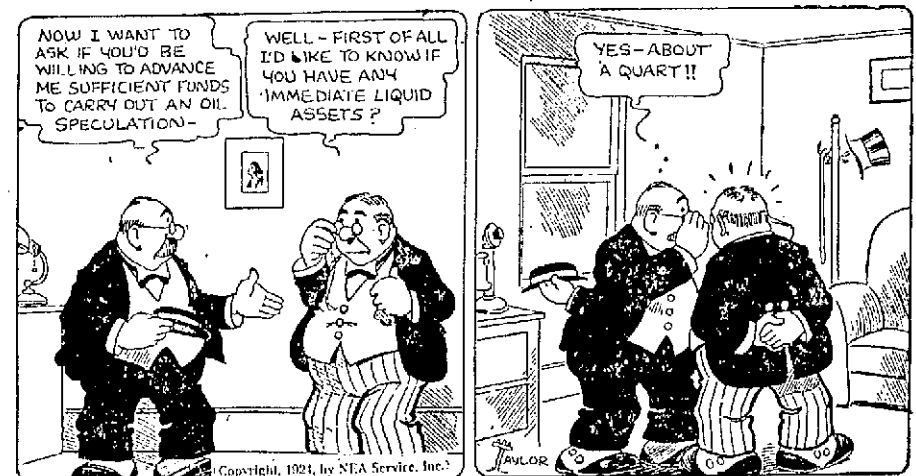

To refrain from advertising in a paper of wide circulation simply because he does not agree with the editor on all public questions, is not using common sense. It is a form of business suicide. It has sent many short-sighted business men into bankruptcy. A dealer might as well put a sign over his store notifying all who do not think as he does that he does not want their patronage. Readers of newspaper advertisements know when and where their patronage is welcome.

OLYMPIA, Wash., July 26.—The evil day of reckoning for many natives of Pondoland, South Africa, is at hand, writes George Tweedie, who is stationed at an isolated British trading post in the interior of that region. In a recent letter to his brother, Archibald C. Tweedie, of the state department of labor and industries.

For the last three years during a period of mourning for the death of a paramount chief, Marolana, there has existed a moratorium and the usual payment of a dowry in exchange for a wife has been suspended. Now, however, Mr. Tweedie writes, the mourning is over and Pondos who obtained their wives on credit must pay up their debts or return their bought-but-not-paid-for wives to the parental kraals.

"The usual fee for a wife is from three to ten head of cattle or horses, in the case of commoners, and in the case of a chief's daughter, as much as 25 head," Mr. Tweedie explained. "A good many I know of have not a hoof to their names and I am afraid they will have to return to bachelorhood. This will accelerate recruiting boys for the gold mines, as they have to get money somewhere."

Mr. Tweedie has been in the interior of Pondoland for the last fifteen years.

Hot Weather Menu

Luncheon—Ham mousses, lettuce sandwiches, chilled berries with powdered sugar, drop cookies, iced tea.

Ham Mousse

Two cups finely chopped cold boiled ham, ½ cup white stock, 1 teaspoon granulated gelatin, ½ cup whipping cream.

Chop and pound the ham until smooth. Season well with mustard and paprika. Soften gelatin in cold water. Bring stock to the boiling point and stir in gelatin. Add to ham and mix well. When cold fold in the cream whipped until stiff. Turn into a mold and set on ice to chill and become firm. Scraps of ham picked from the bone and the ends are delicious used up his way. A knuckle of veal well cracked should be boiled with celery and onion and the usual "bouquet garni" for the stock. If veal or chicken stock, if you live on a farm, is kept on hand in the summer time, many delicious and out of the ordinary dishes can be made with little effort.

Drop Cookies

Two tablespoons butter, ½ cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon

LET THE PENALTY FIT THE CRIME

The trial of young Leopold and Loeb, the murderers of the Franks boy at Chicago, is of deep interest, especially to the parents of this country. The wealth of their parents and the ingenuity of able lawyers will be used to defeat the ends of justice, but the fiendishness of the crime committed by these two "intellectual" young men, calls loudly for the extreme penalty of the law. If the prisoners should escape with life imprisonment, or if they should be adjudged insane and disposed of as was Harry Thaw, only to be released through influence later on, the entire country would be shocked at the miscarriage of justice. Parents of young boys and girls would no longer feel that their children had any protection against the human brutes, aye the human degenerates who degrade their humanity below the status of the ordinary beast.

Since the perpetration of this Chicago crime, another young boy has been done to death in New York by some unknown brute of the most revolting bestial depravity. There will be various others of a similar kind reported if these two fiends in Chicago escape the gallows. The question, therefore, is one of upholding the supremacy of law and the majesty of justice, and of protecting society against criminals of the very worst type to the end that children will not be made the prey of degenerates as ferocious as tigers fresh from the jungle.

The primal object of the Franks murder was to obtain money from the boy's father, a man of great wealth. It had been supposed that the kidnaping business with ransom or blackmail letters, had been resorted to only by noted criminals who came here from other countries; but now we find it practised in the most fiendish manner by two young men of wealthy parentage and high intellectual training. It is to be regretted that their religious training did not go hand in hand with the intellectual. Had they been well trained in the laws of the decalogue, had they been taught to observe the commandments "Thou shalt not steal," "Thou shalt not kill," they could never have been tempted to commit such a foul murder as that of which they have pleaded guilty.

"Specialists" called to show, if possible, that the youths are not responsible for their conduct, will expiate upon the operation of the endocrine glands which are said to control the functions of the body and mind; and it will be contended that these youths are not responsible for their crime because their pineal and pituitary glands are abnormal. Of course, all this can be advanced with equal force in behalf of any criminal, and hence it should be rejected as wholly irrelevant and a mere concoction of undemonstrated theories devised, if possible, to impose upon the credulity of the court which in view of the plea of guilty will have to assume the responsibility of deciding whether the prisoners shall expiate their crime upon the gallows.

Unless the penalty of the law be applied with inexorable justice in this case, then respect for the law and the courts, now unfortunately lower in this country than in most other civilized nations, will fall still lower, and as a result, fiendish murders will become so numerous that the people may be forced to resort to lynch law for their own protection against the menace of such vile criminals as the two Chicago youths or the unknown murderer of the McDonnell boy in New York. The whole problem in this case is merely one of adapting the punishment to the crime. Let that be done and the cause of justice will be fully vindicated.

WOMEN IN THE CAMPAIGN

In the coming election the women of this country will have what is real-ly their first opportunity to vote intelligently in a national election. It is true that they were voted with the right to vote by the proclamation of the 19th amendment on August 18, 1920; but in the few months preceding the election, they did not all have time to grasp the importance of the occasion and hence it is, that in the coming election they are expected to vote in full force and with a fairly clear understanding of the issues involved. It is necessary, in the first place, to realize that in the exercise of the suffrage, the voter applies a part of the sovereignty vested in the people under our republican form of government. Thus, the people are privileged to select their own rulers to conduct the government for the next four years.

If the present administration be found incompetent, inefficient or unfaithful in its duties, then it is the duty of every citizen to vote against it and to vote for the candidates of the democratic party.

It will be observed also, that in voting for the candidates of a party, they electorally vote also for the principles and policies which that party represents.

After passing through such a period of dull business, the need of a change will be obvious, and the only change that can be made with full confidence of bringing about improved conditions, is to place the democratic party in power.

The third party headed by La Follette is socialistic or polyglot; that is, it is made up of a lot of non-descript elements, the most important of which is the socialist party which has pledged its support to the La Follette ticket. It is of the utmost importance, therefore, that the women in the coming election shall realize their power and use it for the best interests of the country, as in no other way will they best serve their own interests and those of all the people.

In order to vote intelligently, it will be necessary for the women voters as well as all others to discount political clapnet framed to delude the voters into supporting candidates whose election will not promote the welfare of their constituents and, will,

therefore, be constructively opposed to the interests of all the people.

The thing to remember is the individual responsibility for the proper use of the franchise now placed in the hands of every woman citizen of this nation. The number of women voters should, therefore, be nearly equal to that of the male voters; and it should be regarded as a patriotic duty to vote at the national election and vote for the candidates and the policies most likely to restore prosperity and thus benefit all the people. In our judgment, the democratic ticket and platform will meet this requirement very much better than those of any other party seeking support at the polls in November.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES

The indiscreet antics and howling of the crowd attending the Olympic games, did not affect the high standing of the various events and should not be taken seriously, either by the committees in charge or the nations whose representatives entered into the competition. Nobody can control the crowd in its lands, then it is the duty of every citizen to vote against it and to vote for the candidates of the democratic party.

It will be observed also, that in voting for the candidates of a party, they electorally vote also for the principles and policies which that party represents.

After passing through such a period of dull business, the need of a change will be obvious, and the only change that can be made with full confidence of bringing about improved conditions, is to place the democratic party in power.

the benefits to be drawn from the national fund by the unemployed. This fund is maintained partly by the government, partly by employers and partly by operatives. It now shows a large deficit; but it has been advancing toward a semblance of solvency, and, but for additional burdens now imposed, it would become solvent early next year, according to best authorities on the subject.

The liberal minister of labor in the coalition government, on the other hand, thinks a "grave risk is being made." Able men engaged in studies of "work insurance" measures on this side of the Atlantic, pretty much agree that such measures are profound mistakes, giving benefits as they do on a very slender contributory basis. The vast army of the unemployed in England today, of course, favors the bill solidly.

THE STONE OF DESTINY

Scotland wants to get the "Stone of Scone," or the "Stone of Destiny," removed from Westminster Abbey to Holyrood palace, Edinburgh. There is not much chance of the request being granted by the British parliament, owing to the many interesting legends and traditions attached to the stone and its remarkable history. It originally belonged in Ireland and it was on this stone the Irish kings were crowned on the hill of Tara. It was said to have been brought to Ireland by Pharaoh's daughter and that it was the selfsame stone on which Jacob reposed at Bethel when he saw the angels ascending and descending the ladder. Be this as it may, the stone was removed to a monastery at Scone in the eighth century and one of the prophecies connected with it, and which made it so celebrated, was, that wherever it rested, there a sovereign of Scottish descent would reign supreme. Ever since it was carried to Westminster in 1296 by Edward I of England, the sovereigns of England have been largely of Scottish ancestry. There is not much interest in this relic of early Celtic power; but even though the legends now connected with this famous stone are discredited, England is not likely to risk letting it out of her possession.

NATURE'S WAY

Why a very useful man is cut off and a worthless one allowed to drag out a weary existence, is one of the most common results of the law of Nature.

The man who lives long may have started with a strong constitution or he may have conformed to the laws of health, whereas had he rushed into danger at every turn or disregarded the laws of health, he could not expect to live as long as he otherwise would. All of which is in strict accord with the Divine plan under which men may shorten or prolong their own lives by their mode of living.

We eat and drink far more than most of us realize. For instance, the milk used by Americans averages 212 quarts a year for every man, woman and child. That is close to a pint and a half a day apiece. You probably do not know many who drink that much. It reaches consumers in the form of cheese, butter and mixed in soups and other prepared foods.

If you do not eat 10 quarts of ice cream this year, you are not getting your full share.

AS TO SENATOR WALSH

It is no small compliment to Senator David I. Walsh to find that a paper so bitterly opposed to him as the Courier-Citizen has to draw upon the imagination of its editors in an effort to make him appear ridiculous. The senator's republican assailants, however, cannot charge him with being smeared with oil. Senator Walsh spent much of his time during the last session of congress, fighting the republican corruptionists of the veterans' bureau.

Some of the Cape towns have started a crusade against the motorists who litter the roadsides with papers, tin cans and garbage where they stop to lunch. There is good ground for complaint on account of this carelessness. It should be stopped everywhere. The Cape district is not the only one that has good ground for complaint on account of such carelessness by motorists.

An unreliable fire alarm is dangerous and may be worse than worthless. The first essential in fire fighting is to locate the incipient blaze at the earliest possible moment. The earliest alarm of Wednesday evening, registered the need of a new system or prompt repairs of the old.

France cannot see why she should waive her claim for 32 billions while Germany is paying off a $250,000,000 loan. She realizes that if her claims were to wait upon payment of the loan, she might have to wait indefinitely. She is not disposed to take any chances of that kind.

When the numerous uses of rubber are considered, it may be realized how vast must be the supply. Rubber is now being used for paving and for this purpose it has been highly commended for durability and safety. It would seem that if all the old auto tires were salvaged the supply would supply much material for paving blocks.

Building reports from 27 cities at this state show a slowing down in June from the amount of the permits for May which is but natural. Lowell should endeavor to keep ahead in construction work. It is a good time to go forward even if other cities go backward.

If a lunch-cart be stuck in every hole in the wall along the public streets, the result will be, that none will do a paying business and the price of the food served will be raised while the quality will be lowered.

SEEN AND HEARD

The faster a rumor travels the wilder it grows.

Give a pig a chance and he will make a hog of himself.

All people worry because they are either married or single.

The shortest dramatic review is attributed to a Londoner, A. B. Walkley, in his criticism of a play called "A Dreadful Evening." He wrote "Exactly," and then stopped.

A Thought

Peace and wickedness are far asunder—Stillingfleet.

Tell-Tale Breath

"I think I heard an alarm of fire," he said, as they were seated in the theatre, "and I must go out and see about it." Returning after 15 minutes he remarked: "It wasn't a fire." "And it wasn't water!" she said still more briefly.

Life After Death

Two women went for a walk and presently climbed to a cemetery which overlooks one of the most beautiful valleys in Yorkshire. "I think," said one of them to her friend, after they had admired the view, "that I should like to be buried here. It's such a healthy spot."

Long Distance

A man went into a telephone booth and started what appeared to be a protracted conversation. He had left the door ajar. A line composed of men, waiting their turn, formed outside. Now and then they could hear the chap in the booth murmur, "Yes, my angel." A drummer joined the line just in time to hear an emphatic "Yes, my angel." "Hello," said the drummer, "central's given somebody Heaven."

"Parked Chewing Gum"

A use for "parked" chewing gum has been found. Tom Steinhilber of Hawthorne, N. C., took a young brother, Bud, with him to Charlotte in an effort to ascertain whether or not his car was among the 47 recovered when a gang of automobile thieves had been rounded up. Numbers had been swished and cars repaired. But Bud would not be denied. "That's your driver, Tom," had opined. "I stuck a wad of chewing gum in the top and I bet it is still there." It was.

Scheme Detected

An old gentleman went into a 10-cent store and sidled around from counter to counter in a somewhat mysterious manner. He bought some bolts, some cardboard, some wire, and then went over and began to rattle the tinware. "What is he up to?" whispered a girl customer. "I think," responded her chum, "he has a scheme he doesn't want anybody to get onto. 'Schemes'—Drinks to me like he is buying the parts and is going to assemble an automobile."

Not Ordinary Idlers

A man slipped on a banana peel and executed a very funny fall not being hurt, as it turned out, but having his dignity somewhat ruffled. When he recovered a moment later a friend was holding his hat and a number of people had formed a circle. "What do these idlers want?" he snarled. "They are not idlers," explained his friend soothingly. "Here's a doctor who wants to look you over, a lawyer ready to bring suit for you, and a producer of comic films who would like to sign you up."

Big Town Training

The proprietor of a village store was sitting with the loafers who had formed a circle around the stove. His sole assistant was a youngster who had lately drifted in from parts unknown. A woman entered and asked for a pound of cheese. She would not allow the assistant to wait on her, but insisted on having the proprietor. The lad must have been trained in some city office, for to this demand he made firm reply: "Can't disturb him now, he's in conference."

The Reporter

Behold him! He is the omnipresent, the ubiquitous, the everywhereful! He springs from nowhere. Eager as a hound is eager in the chase his nose sniffs. And his ears a-cock.

In his pockets are many stabs of penicils some in service—Stabs bit and chewed. Saved and shared again, All waiting to leap forth And mark their histories Down on paper.

For him the copy readers wait, And the linotypers. The soup, the dope, the autoplats, the great presses, tons of steel, Elephantine things that grind To make men's fortunes or To break their pride.

Into the thick of life he plunges, Into its comedies, its tragedies, Its heartbreaks and its romances! Here listening to the halting lies Of a too willing witness.

There viewing the remains Of a hoach-driven juggernaut! Or drolled up for the party, Taking names of those present At Mrs. Thimblebolt's Whateacallit!

QUARTER CENTURY AGO

An industrial commission sat in Lowell 25 years ago at which time a hearing was given on textile education. Among the prominent witnesses at the hearing were Sec. James T. Smith of the board of trade, J. L. Chaffoux, ex-councilman C. J. Howe, C. P. Brooks, former director of the Lowell Textile school, E. D. McVey, Esq., Peter Caddell, Thomas F. Connolly and many others. The gentlemen in the commission included Hon. Elihu Smythe of South Carolina, Hon. John F. Kennedy of Buffalo, N. Y., and Col. Albert Clark of Wellesey. They were accompanied by a stenographer and a Boston newspaperman. Secretary Smith explained the purpose of the Textile school and its offerings and accomplishments. He told of the tendencies of the various races who make up our population and the stability of character prominent among those races.

Principal Crosby of the Textile school also told of the advantages offered to the textile industry by the Textile school.

The fifth annual picnic of the Wolf Tone Guards was held at Shawheen River grove 25 years ago. The party made the trip by train arriving at the grove in schedule time. The officers in charge were: General manager, Capt. Patrick Grimmins; assistant, First Lieut. Michael Gallagher; door marshal, Second Lieut. Patrick Cashman; assistant, First Sergt. Patrick Farrell. An able committee assisted the general officers.

I understand that new and lighter weight uniforms for members of the police traffic squad are now assured and that they will be forthcoming from a Boston outfit within a week or so. To do traffic duty in one spot for any length of time with suits as heavy as the present regulation ones is almost cruelly and several of the traffic men have said it was almost impossible to withstand the heat of the sun on many days of the present month. We do not know just what arrangements have been made for the purchase of the new uniforms, but the city should stand all of it. It is a duty it owes the men it places on sun baked corners to keep traffic in check.

It just occurs to us how Harry G. Lawson of Lowell, pursuer on the S. S. Boston that was rammed off Point Judith, escaped newspaper reporters in New York city. Mr. Lawson spoke of it during an interview yesterday. He had been hounded to death and had made many statements and wanted a little relief and rest. He thought of a Turkish bath and put his thoughts into quick execution. "I remained there for about three hours," he said, "and while it probably did me a considerable amount of physical good it also helped me out a lot mentally." And we can see how it might.

Stephen Flynn, city clerk, is one of the proudest men in the city and the reason is this: One of his sons, Desmond Burke of Ottawa, Canada, won the king's prize in the recent shooting competition at Bingley Camp, England. From the daily papers in Ottawa, of which "Steve" has several copies, it would seem that the winning of this competition was very similar to our own Henry Sullivan's feat in swimming the English channel. Young Burke, who is but 19 years old, is acclaimed in the dailies as one of the wonder shots of the world, score 230 out of a possible 250 points and defeating the pride of the British army. One of the first to congratulate young Burke was the Prince of Wales, and congratulations were also forwarded to him by King George, the governor-general and premier of Canada. The leading citizens of Ottawa are planning a great reception to him when he returns and Mr. Flynn wishes it would be possible for him to be among those who welcome the conqueror home again.

SHAKESPEARE

This figure, that thou here seemst put, It was for gentle Shakespeare cut; Wherein the Graver had a strife With Nature to outdo the life: Oh, could he but have drawn his wit As well in brass, as he hath hit His face; the Print would then surpass All that was ever writ in brass. But since he cannot, Reader, look Not at his picture, but his book. —Ben Jonson.

HOME MADE

Hal Cochran's DAILY POEM

There's a magic little word that makes a fellow want to eat. It's a word that never can be overplayed. Every time that you may hear it, it suggests a wholesome treat, and the little word I think of is homemade.

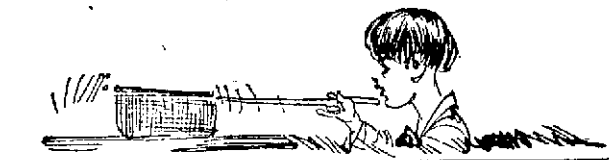

You appreciate the foodstuffs that are purchased at the store and they satisfy the appetite, 'tis true. But the grub that makes you happy; makes you holler for some more, is the food that mother cooks herself for you.

Apple pie that fairly savors of the finest kind of taste is the kind that makes you hungry when you're not. It's the brand that mother bakes you and no portion goes to waste, for the pie, from start to finish, hits the spot.

Homemade bread is baked at morning and it seldom lasts till night, though a baker's loaf is not as strongly played. Is it just that mother makes it in a way that seems just right? What's the reason that you like it best homemade?

Even parents have the habit and they get the homemade thrill! It's a trait that in each living soul is born. Though it isn't to their liking, yet they'll eat their fullest fill, when a youngster in the family pops some corn.

Telephone Company Wanted Franchise

The petitioners of the Globe Telephone Company of Virginia for the right to operate a telephone and telegraph system in this city, was given a hearing before the board of aldermen 25 years ago. The new company was at the time a recently incorporated affair with no plant or system in operation. As it was the first attempt of the company to obtain a franchise, it was generally regarded with skepticism while the New England company, which was then in operation, had witnesses present to oppose the system. The application was rejected after a hearing.

Organized Machinists

John J. Connolly, organizer of the International association of machinists, arrived here 25 years ago to reorganize the machinists of the city whose union collapsed during the hard times. Mr. Connolly, a fluent and instructive speaker upon the labor subject, was cordially greeted by the local men and received general encouragement and backing.

25 Years Wed

Charles W. Tobin and Miss Jennie Coyne were united in marriage at St. Joseph's cathedral, Manchester, by Rev. Denis A. Bradley, July 25, 1899. Thomas Corcoran of this city, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Attending the wedding were several guests from Lowell, where the couple had many friends.

Mr. Broadbent Surprised

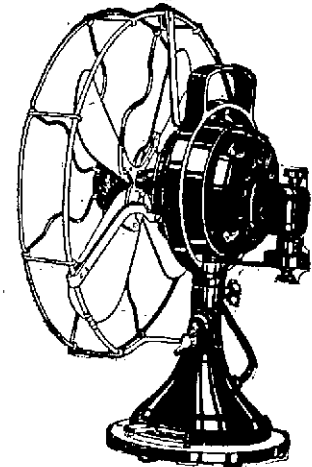

Mr. Robert Broadbent of the firm of Stockwell & Company was pleasantly surprised at his home, 171 Smith street, 25 years ago when his fellow workers presented him and his wife a beautiful velvet couch in return for an entertainment given them at the time of Mr. Broadbent's marriage, a short time before.

FRANCIS & LESSARD
ALWAYS UP-TO-DATE
Nothing is ever found wanting in the food and vegetable line at Francis & Lessard's market, Centralville, if it is in season. In winter, household de-lectables in foods are always on sale in popular selections. In the spring, summer and autumn months, favorite food products of the farms and garden are always in generous supply and at lower prices. The Bridge street apartment market at No. 270, has a customer clientele today that cannot be equaled by any similar mart of trade of its size and goods distribution capable in Lowell or vicinity.
In the summer months, beside the Bridge street main headquarters, there is a prosperous establishment dealing in similar lines of groceries, meats and vegetables, etc., at popular Hampton
beach, where many summer residents obtain all of their food supplies for cottage breakfasts, dinners and suppers and special celebrations.
The Francis & Lessard market offers
each week special reductions in meats,
lamb, pork, fowl, veal, etc. Their advertisements in The Sun should be closely followed by customers who want to take advantage of the many bargain sales that occur during the week and every day in the week.
Food prices are always the lowest in Lowell at the Bridge street establishment, formerly known as "The Depot Cash Market," and good words from a host of old customers of the store, are bringing in new customers daily to the Francis & Lessard market in goodly numbers.

FEDERAL TRUCK HAS
WIDE AWAKE AGENCY
Truck owners prefer transportation vehicles that will stand hard use without repairs. They prefer trucks with known ability to stand up in this way on long and short transportation hauls. Federal trucks are noted for their ability to withstand hard usage, rocking, heavy loads and strenuous hauls over every kind of road, responsible and otherwise.
Owners of Federal trucks have the extra satisfaction of knowing that there is a splendid service station always awaiting them at 1040 Gorham street, whenever they desire to have their highway conveyances overhauled, adjusted, "kissed" or oiled.
The Federal service station on Gorham street, managed and operated by the genial Ralph B. Comins, has been established so long that every truck-driver, familiar with Federal trucks
and Federal service, knows the quickest way to the doors of this establishment, and always obtains perfect satisfaction.
The Federal trucks have made many new cross-country transportation hauls records this year. The history of the automobile "inter-city" carrier is well known too. It is substantially built to remain in a sturdy condition
for years. It is distributed to buyers in the various ton-capacities, the prices are the lowest in the world for trucks of the Federal quality, and to own a Federal is a mark of genuine distinction in auto-transportation circles today.

AMBRICOAL IN THE
FAVORITE STOVE SIZE
Lajoie Coal company announces that it has just received another consig-ment of the new very popular "Franklin Ambricoal," prepared for immediate stove usage. It is superior to coke and actually the best fuel outside the regular prepared sizes of anthracite. The Lajoie concern, it may be stated has sold this coal for several years, and it has always given full satisfaction.
The price now is but $14.50 per ton, and it is worth a great deal more, as a host of satisfied patrons of this fuel testify.
The well known coal-distributing concern some time ago issued formal announcements to the people of Lowell and vicinity covering some important phases of the present situation in the bituminous and anthracite coals.
There is no question but what a shortage in the popular anthracites will come later on, if not early in the winter, then a little later on, for there is not enough coal being mined today to meet all near-future requirements, and
no chances of mining enough more before next year to fill every bin to capacity.
Not so many miners have been working this year as usual and while there has been enough hard coal distributed to meet the small summer months demand, there will soon be pressing calls for larger shipments to meet bin-dilling orders. All coal merchants agree that retail prices will be higher before long, and all of the merchants, including the Lajoie Coal company, strongly recommend the filling of the home and business establishments with without delay, if patrons are to save money
and secure their full supplies at the same time.
The Lajoie Coal company has a handy down-town office at 110 Central street, where orders can be left any week day and receive prompt attention. The Central street telephone number is 637. The headquarters, distributing plant and general offices are located at 1012 Gorham street; the telephone number is 2725.

ments of the usual discriminating customers.

pressive memorials to the dead in Lowell cemeteries, are Meehan-constructed.

lished monument firm. The quality

ing performed by this reputable monument working company, cannot be surpassed. Advice is given freely on all variably.

WATSON SHOE COMPANY
HOLDS OUTING
The annual outing of the C. V. Watson Shoe company, of 341 Middlesex street, took place today at Nantasket beach. The party, numbering about 275 men and women, made the trip in 25 touring cars and four large trucks.
They left the city at 8:30 this morning.
Immediately following arrival at the beach the entire party donned bathing suits and plunged into the briny. Impromptu races were inaugurated, both in the water and on the sand. Under the leadership of Percy Sinclair, superintendent of the C. V. Watson plant, various sports were held on the beach,
followed by exhibitions in trick swimming and diving by Wilfred Cote and Catherine Flynn.
At noon the party broke up into groups and had dinner at the place
they chose. In the afternoon a baseball game was staged on the beach between both fellows and girls. Dancing will occupy the greater part of the evening. The party will make the return trip to Lowell at 11 o'clock.
The committee in charge of the outing was as follows: Percy Sinclair, superintendent of the plant, chairman;
Catherine Flynn, John Gerla, Jennie
Coloun, Oscar Anderson and Mary
Smith.

surance problems in Wyman's Exchange offices on Central street, in the busiest section of busy Lowell. This long-established house of insurance was founded in 1893. Edson K. Humphrey is the proprietor today, but the old, familiar and honored name "W.

in the firm's widespread advertising
as always. And nearly everybody knows this firm, particularly those

erty of all kinds.

surance house like the popular concise long established in Wyman's Exchange.
Liability insurance is a growing business with this concern. Prop.
Humphrey is prepared at all times to
need insurance protection, give ready advice on all matters relating to liability insurance and also arrange for the placing of suitable insurance protection on properties of all kinds.
There are policies issued by firms of national reputation here. The Dodge company handles only the best.

Poloists Prepare for Invasion

By N.E.A. Service
NEW YORK, July 26.—America is getting ready to resist another invasion by the English polo cracks, scheduled for September. It is generally conceded that the fight this year will be harder than ever.

For one thing the English four is said to be unusually formidable. Secondly, the American squad has been performing far below its usual speed.

As these lines were being written the makeup of the American four was still a matter of debate. It seems most

Billy Evans SAYS

"Many star ball players do not take the full advantage of their possibilities. Often speed merchants going down to first are poor base runners after they reach the initial sack.

This usually is due to the fact that they lack the knack of getting a big lead, breaking with the pitch, falling to perfect a deceptive slide is also a handicap.

Certain pitchers with great natural ability throw caution to the wind and try to win through sheer power rather than making a little thought with their pitching.

All of which prepares the way for the theme of this story, the design of Babe Ruth. It deals with Ruth the hunter rather than Ruth the slugger.

Due to the fact that Ruth is regarded as a right-hander, the right-hander assume a peculiar defensive style in playing for Ruth.

The first baseman is well on the right field foul line, the second baseman shifts almost to the spot of the first sacker, the shortstop stands near second, while the third sacker is well on the way to short.

The outfield shifts along the same lines. The pitcher is expected to keep the ball inside to Ruth in order that the defense may get the proper break.

With the third baseman playing deep and well over to short, the situation is made in order for a hunt by Ruth, if he can lay the ball down the third base line.

Incidentally any fly to left field that is short is certain to fall safe.

For several years Ruth has faced just such a situation, an infield defense all out of position to handle a hunt.

Occasionally Ruth would try to lay down a bunt, failing to do so, would go back to his slugging swing.

This season the hunt has become as much a part of the Ruth batting system as the home run swing.

I have already seen him beat out at least a dozen perfectly placed bunts this year.

Have often wondered why more players, noted for their hard hitting ability, didn't go in for the bunt. It is dangerous to play close for such players.

With the third baseman back, most any good bunt is a base hit.

In golf the sinking of a long putt carries none of the thrill that goes with a long ball from the tee.

No doubt a well placed bunt lacks the appeal to the slugger that the home run drive has.

That possibly explains why so few of the hard hitters go in for the hunting game.

A tom-tit which made a home in a pillar box at Central, Longshore, used parts of letters to build its nest.

CHICAGO'S COMEBACK AS RACING CITY

CHICAGO, July 26.—This city is back on the racing map, a big league city in the turf game after nearly 20 years of dormancy. From a modest start two years ago with a short fall meeting the popularity of horse racing in the metropolis of the middle west has been proved. The present 52-day meeting at Hawthorne proves the fact that Chicago, once the great racing center in the country, is still for the thoroughbred.

Huge crowds are turning out. On Derby day 40,000 fans crowded every corner of the old West Side track to see Black Gold, 3-year-old champion, win from Ludkin, pride of Maj. August Belmont's stable.

Presiding Steward Joseph A. Murphy is the man who put racing back on the map in Chicago. Two years ago he attempted a two weeks' meeting in October. The class of horses was of mediocre variety. A longer meeting last summer, with such stars as Saracen and in Memorial winning feature races, awakened interest in a big, lively way.

"The most encouraging thing about this year's meeting," says Judge Murphy, "is the type of crowd that we are attracting at Hawthorne. It used to be said that horse racing and general lawlessness went hand in hand. But that is not true today. Chicago's big race business men and Chicago's leading society women through the clubhouse lawn daily."

Most birds are restless when a change in the weather is likely. There is an earthquake about once a week in the city of Illinois, Peru.

WIN TOSS IN TENNIS EXPERT ADVISES

BY MERCER BEASLEY
The A-to-Z Man of Tennis

Tennis ranks with the scientific sports, with billiards, golf and other forms of baseball. Very frequently the most important matches are decided by eye-lash margins. Making the most of the "call of the toss," a seemingly unimportant detail, sometimes starts a player out on the road to victory.

Not enough attention is given to the possibilities of winning the toss. Yet it has its advantages no less than those in football when a captain calls the toss of the coin correctly and elects to defend the goal with the wind in his favor.

In tennis I think the advantages are even greater. Unquestionably the player who wins the toss also wins the first "break." He has the choice of service or court. In the cup matches some pretty keen thinking is done on this point.

If a player has figured that he can break through his opponent's serve on the first game and win his own service on the second game he will let the other fellow serve first. In most cases, however, the toss usually the attacker and it is up to him to show what he can do.

This may give you an idea of the value of calling the toss correctly. Say it is a close match, and each player has won his service up to four-all in games. The service then would be in the hands of the player who won the toss, and if he won that game he would be in the lead and within one game of winning the set.

This is an important advantage as any tennis player knows. It means that the leading player can afford to take all the chances, whereas his opponent must adopt the most cautious and careful sort of program.

Give a little thought to the toss the next time you call "rough" or "smooth." It means something more than just starting the match off.

Questions

At the opening of the eighth inning the home team is leading by the score of 2 to 0. The first man up for the visitors knocks a home run. The next man goes out. The next three batters get on. With the score 2 to 1 in favor of the home team, one out and the bases filled, the pitcher is taken out. As a result of errors by the third baseman and second baseman, coupled with a base on balls by the relief pitcher, three runs cross the plate before the side is retired. When the home team goes back to bat, the score is 5 to 1 in favor of the home team. Which pitcher is credited with winning the game?

Answers

1. Relief pitcher is credited with winning the game. Runners who scored in eighth inning were put on the bases by pitcher who started game. Had final score been 4 to 2, pitcher who started game would have been charged with defeat. Since home team put over winning runs during tenure of relief pitcher he gets credit for the victory.

2. Run does not count. No run can score on a play in which the batsman fails to reach first base for the third out of the inning.

MAY COMPTON AND CLIVE BROOK IN "THIS FREEDOM" AT RIALTO THEATRE COMMENCING TOMORROW

In transferring "This Freedom" to the screen, a virtue human melodrama of tremendous popular appeal has been fashioned from the best-seller by A. S. M. Hutchinson. Another also of "If Winter Comes," "This Freedom" opens Sunday.

This story takes up the case of the modern married woman in business and her attempt to successfully have a career and run her home at the same time.

Hutchinson's theme develops the life story of the woman who falls in her attempt to have both careers, but there are many people who disagree with the author and claim that a capable woman can successfully run two jobs.

This was the most dramatic novel of the past year. The subject is one that has been featured in newspapers and magazines throughout the country. Many business firms will not employ a married woman unless she is compelled through circumstances to his story first introduced us to Rosalie, his heroine, in her childhood as the daughter of a minister, in whose house the male members of the family were exalted. She grew up to be a man-buster and a champion of woman's rights and decided that she would have her career and live her life just like a man. Rosalie enters the banking field and rapidly advances to a position of authority. But her womanliness cannot be brushed aside by the fact that she has "the mind of a man" and occupies a man's place in the business world. She marries a young attorney but insists upon keeping her independence and leaves her home in the care of trained servants. Because the home is "organized," Rosalie thinks that her duty is fulfilled. She is unable to spend very much time at home because of her business duties.

From this point on the screen story moves rapidly through a series of dramatic incidents which carry the theme forward to its tremendous climax. Rosalie soon treacherously enters her home, when her son and daughter are discovered, owing to what she believes her neglect of the children in their early youth. In her hour of defeat she asks herself, "With what sum obtained I this freedom?"

Danison Cliff, an American director, filmed the picture in England on the sites selected by the author. Fay Compton, who scored a success in the stage play "Saratoga," has the leading role in this production.

BARUCH, JR., MAY WED ACTRESS

PARIS, July 26.—The marriage of Barney Baruch, Jr., to Lois Wilson, the film actress, whose greatest success was in "The Covered Wagon," is to take place in the immediate future, although both are keeping a systematic silence on their plans. Rumors of their engagement have been floating about Paris since Miss Wilson arrived here a week ago. She has been seen constantly with young Mr. Baruch in restaurants and cabarets, sometimes accompanied by the elder Mr. Baruch. At a luncheon to screen folks yesterday, Miss Wilson was asked to confirm or deny the report, but she only smiled and said she would rather not discuss it. Mr. Baruch likewise grinned and remained silent.

PATTERNED AFTER OLD TYPE FRENCH HOME

Copyright, 1923—Architects' Small House Service Bureau.

Plan No. 6021.

The architectural treatment of this home, with its low sloping roofs, has a decided leaning to the old type of the French country home. There are six good rooms, and the house is practically square. It is planned to be built of cement blocks, laid up in random courses, plain face, while the roof is treated with large shingles. The dining and living rooms are practically one, giving a roomy effect. The upstairs hall arrangement is ingenious, considering that it takes up little room, yet opens on three bedrooms and bath. Each bedroom is provided with cross ventilation, and cross light. The kitchen is compact, with plenty of cupboard space, and it receives light from two sides. This house can be placed on a 45-foot lot, and is designed to face east or south. For other facings, the plans can be reversed. The cost to build this house, including heating, plumbing, lighting, painting, ready to live in, but not including wall decoration, should range between $8000 and $9000. In certain localities where costs are high, the highest figure quoted would be too low. In other localities, the lowest figure quoted would be more than sufficient. The range of $1000 is given to cover differences in the way the house is built and how thoroughly it is equipped and completed.

A rent receipt is not much of an asset. It is the written permission of the landlord for the occupancy of a few square feet of floor space, for about thirty days,—after that it is valueless.

Why Not Build a Home and Be Your Own Landlord?

The interest on the investment, plus taxes and repairs, certainly would be less than the rent demanded for such a Home as you desire, or the landlord could not afford to invest his money in property to rent. On the other hand, the value of the feeling of ownership of a Home, a safe refuge for yourself and family, and a place to entertain your friends, cannot be estimated.

SALVATION ARMY HOLDS OUTING AT NABNASSET POND

SALVATION ARMY SUNDAY SCHOOL CHILDREN READY FOR ANNUAL OUTING

Eighty children and 20 grown-ups, members of the Salvation Army Sunday school, are enjoying an outing at Nabnasset pond today.

The outing is the largest in the history of the local branch of the Salvation Army and is under the direction of Commandant Captain Farrar and Young People's Sergeant Major Bell.

Members of the party gathered at Salvation Army headquarters in Appleton street at 9 o'clock this morning, made the trip to the pond by auto trucks, leaving the city at 9:30 o'clock. The trip was made slowly, the children enjoying the auto ride almost as much as the outing itself, and the trucks did not reach the outing grounds until 10:30 o'clock.

Upon arrival at the grounds, a short talk on safety precautions was given the children by Capt. Farrar and a program of sports was immediately begun. A ball game between picked teams was first on the program and members of the winning teams were awarded suitable prizes.

Races for boys and girls, classed according to their ages, followed and furnished a great deal of entertainment to the children participating.

Those on the sidelines, and the grown-ups who were in the party.

Each member of the party brought with him or her a basket lunch and at noon the order was given to open the boxes and start luncheon. When the boxes were emptied, the outing party was treated to watermelon and ice cream by the outing committee.

Although dozens of watermelons had been taken for this purpose, the children's appetites were not satisfied until the last one had been cut and eaten. The watermelons were, without doubt, the features of the luncheon.

After luncheon a short rest period was ordered and older members of the party entertained the youngsters with interesting stories appropriate to the occasion.

When Capt. Abbot decided it was safe to renew activities, the sports program was resumed and games played. In each of the athletic contests prizes were awarded the winners.

During the afternoon the children were permitted to bathe in the pond where benches made this sport safe. They were also treated to boat rides about the pond.

The return trip will be made at 6 o'clock.

(Special to The Sun)

CAMP DEVENS, July 26.—The last hundred miles may be the hardest, but the first thirty are hard enough.

This has been one grand "Big Red" all-work week of summer military training for B battery of Lowell and A and C brother gunners of Haverhill and Lawrence, respectively.

Three solid days, morning and afternoon, or not shots at the far targets.

single-shot firing, volley firing, rapid and slow touchin' 'er awf, and everything. Splendid shooting, too, says Major Howe, who commands the first battalion in which Lowell battery men are shining shooters.

But the worst is yet to come. Just as if three whole days were not enough for the long range firing maneuvers.

FIRE IN AIKEN AVENUE

Bales of Hay, Bags of Grain and Truck Destroyed—Store Damaged

The hay and grain store of Henry Respassant at 112 Aiken avenue was badly damaged by fire of unknown origin this morning and fifty or more bales of hay, several bags of grain, and an automobile truck, stored in the building, were destroyed.

Andrew Burgess, a milkman, discovered the fire while delivering milk in the section and sounded an alarm from box 613 at 5:35 a. m. The fire had considerable headway before discovery for when the firemen arrived flames were bursting from doors and windows.

Several lines of hose were directed on the fire and within a few minutes the flames were under control. The recall was sounded at 6 o'clock, but the West Centralville hose company remained at the scene for several hours pouring water on the haled hay.

No estimate of the loss could be given by the proprietor this morning.

COMMITTEE FAVORS LEAGUE OF NATIONS

PARIS, July 26.—(By the Associated Press) Unanimous pronouncement in favor of the League of Nations treaty of mutual guarantees has been made by a sub-committee appointed by the higher council of national defense to study the question. Socialist Deputy Paul Boncour is the head of the committee.

Since the sub-committee includes the chiefs of the military and naval staffs, Gen. Destieker representing Marshall Foch, Gen. Mangia and other military leaders, Le Matin observes that there seems to be no doubt that the council will adopt the opinion of its sub-committee and that the French government will be able to send a favorable reply to the league some time during August.

Bishop Lawrence of Episcopal Diocese Petitions Pardon for Rollins Brothers

Are Serving Sentences in State Prison for Murder—Petition Is Filed

BOSTON, July 26.—Bishop William Lawrence of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts, is among the signers of a petition to the governor and council asking for the pardon of George L. Rollins and Charles Rollins, brothers, serving sentences in the state prison for murder. The petition was filed at the state house today.

Sheriff John A. Kellher of Suffolk county, who had both men under his charge while they were in the Charles street jail, also signed the petition. The petitioner expressed the opinion that the brothers are innocent of the crimes for which they were convicted and that they expect to be able to prove it.

Jesse Murphy, now serving a life term in Michigan for the murder of a policeman and a near bear saloon proprietor in Detroit, confessed while an inmate of a hospital for the criminal insane in Pennsylvania that he committed the murders for which the Rollins brothers were sentenced, but later retraced his steps to stand trial for murder. Aliens appointed by the superior court reported that he was sane and in January, 1923, he was tried and acquitted.

George Rollins was convicted of murder in the first degree for shooting Ordway Hall and Charles, his brother, of murder in the second degree for shooting Edward P. Foley. The victims were managers of chain grocery stores in the Roxbury district and the murders were committed within a week of each other in February 1917 by men who robbed the stores.

State Department Aroused at Developments Will Take Strong Hand

WASHINGTON, July 26.—State department officials prepared today to formally ask the Persian government to take immediate measures to protect American citizens in that country from attacks and insults from "undesired" foreigners as a result of the killing of Major Robert Imbrie, American vice consul at Teheran, and developments following that affair.

Decision of the department to

take this action followed receipt of advices from Joseph S. Kornfeld, American minister, telling of insults to Mrs. Imbrie, widow of the former consul, for which a young Persian was said to be responsible.

According to the minister's despatches, the Persian youth grabbed the veil worn by Mrs. Imbrie, attempting to tear it from her, and at the same time exhorting upon her person. The reported outrage was said to have occurred at Teheran last Tuesday.

A native policeman, reported to have been some distance from the place where Mrs. Imbrie was attacked, but who is believed to have witnessed the affair, made no attempt to protect her or interfere with her assailant, the despatch said.

The state department had already demanded a "precise statement" from Persia concerning the death of Major Robert Imbrie, vice consul. He was stoned to death at Teheran by natives who said he wore a Persian fez and attempted to photograph secret religious ceremonies.

Mrs. Imbrie was married in December.

LOEB COUNSEL QUIZZES COP

Failed to Report All His Findings to Superiors, It Is Shown

CHICAGO, July 26.—(By the Associated Press) Insinuating that the state's testimony which credited Nathan Leopold, Jr., with a desire to plead guilty before a "friendly judge" was a fabrication, Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for Leopold and Richard Loeb, struck hard today at this evidence.

It was the first time since the boys pleaded guilty to the kidnapping and murder of Robert Franks that their counsel had challenged the truth of any material fact brought out by the witnesses summoned by Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney.

James Cortland, detective sergeant drew the fire of the defense attorney, "let it be known that this whole story of the conversation in which you said Nathan hoped for a prison sentence by a plea of guilty before a 'friendly judge' was a pure fabrication concocted for the purpose of intimidating the court." Darrow asked.

"It is not," declared Cortland.

CHICAGO, July 26.—(By the Associated Press) Counsel for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb struck back today at the evidence for the state. For the first time since the opening Wednesday of the hearing which is to fix the penalty of the youthful slayers of Robert Franks, a state witness was cross-examined at length by the defense.

Detective Sergeant Frank Cortland who yesterday told of conversations with Leopold in which the college student defendant revealed his reaction to the crime he had confessed, was stubbornly cross-examined by Attorney Clarence Darrow as to his experience as a policeman.

The witness was asked to read textually his notes of Leopold's statement that if he decided he would prefer life imprisonment to the gallows, he would "plead guilty before a friendly judge."

The action of the defense counsel was in the nature of a challenge of the testimony of Cortland, in which every statement was examined to the most minute detail.

It was Cortland, who yesterday, as the state's sixth or seventh witness before Chief Justice John R. Caverly of the criminal court, quoted Leopold as having declared murder to be no crime in his code.

It was brought out that Cortland made no mention of the "friendly judge" statement to his superiors in official reports, although he said he had revealed to Assistant States Attorney Joseph P. Savage and had talked about it with friends.

After an hour's cross-examination, Cortland was temporarily withdrawn from the witness stand and ordered not to converse with any one in the court room while Jacob Weinstein, general manager of an optical establishment, was called by the state to identify the glasses found near the railroad culvert which yielded Frank's body.

Weinstein identified the glasses presented to the state as corresponding exactly to the specifications called for on an envelope on which appeared the name Nathan Leopold, Jr.

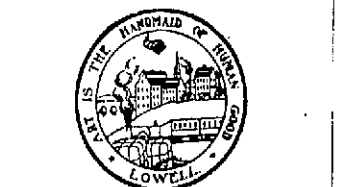

ADD BOSTON ALIENIST TO SLAYERS' STAFF

CHICAGO, July 26.—(By the Associated Press) Dr. William J. Healy of Boston and Dr. Benjamin Glueck, New York, alienists, were added to the staff of the defense today in the hearing of Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers and murderers of 14-year-old Robert Franks. Their presence, it was said, preceded a hard court fight for the lives of defendants in their final week.

Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defendants, announced that Dr. Healy is director of the Baker Foundation of Boston and is a specialist in juvenile delinquency. He said Dr. Healy was formerly examining alienist at Sing Sing and more recently attached to the municipal courts in New York. He, too, is active in juvenile cases.

EMIGRATION ONLY SOLUTION TO COMPLETE LOEB OVERCROWDING IN JAPAN CASE TUESDAY

Exodus Contemplated Under Sponsorship of Special Committee Appointed By Premier Three Months Ago—To Colonize Northern Islands

TOKIO, June 26. (By Associated Press.)—Outlines of a new policy for relieving the pressure of population in Japan have been sketched by the committee on emigration and colonization of the new imperial economic council appointed two months ago by Premier Kiyoura.

The first measures suggested look toward further populating of Hokkaido, the northern island of Japan. Other measures deal with the sending of emigrants abroad. The committee's suggestions will be placed before the whole economic council first, and then before the cabinet for approval. The committee's report, a lengthy document, is summarized as follows:

"Japan's limited area, together with her large annual increase of population, presents a critical problem for the empire. Japan has no more important problem than to find an outlet for her surplus population. A solution must be sought at home as well as abroad. For domestic migration Hokkaido presents the greatest opportunities. Hokkaido now has a population of 2,400,000, but has room for more than 4,000,000. A successful policy of emigration abroad requires judicious financing. Emigrants going abroad should not be permitted to leave Japan without sufficient funds for their proper establishment in their new homes. The government should establish a special banking organ for such a purpose. To ensure a successful policy of emigration to other countries, the following suggestions should be followed:

"Special education of intending emigrants about the conditions and customs of the countries to which they intend to go; establishment of an emigrant's home; establishment of special diplomatic policies toward the countries to which emigrants are sent; emigration laws should be revised to afford better protection to emigrants; emigrants should be exempted from the conscription law; emigrants after a fixed period of residence abroad should be encouraged to naturalize in the countries of their residence; a special commission on overseas emigration should be established; outlets for overseas emigration must be sought in lands where the least resistance is offered."

tion came yesterday in a letter from "Monk," addressed to Quartermaster Sergeant Jefferson Howard, who broke the news sadly to his comrades and the Sun military news-grubber. "Monk's" rants were always O. K., not discounting Chief Bourassa's beautiful lay-outs of genuine food cooked with tasty trimmings.

Kitchen police duties were assigned to Privates Patris and Riley this week. You say it! And how the dishes fly around in the 25-foot sink under the faucets of the all-hot! The detail in charge of quarters under the expert supervision of the price of quartermaster sergeant—Chief Howard—are three old fellows—Chief Howard, Chief Lachance and Chief Mechanic Hays. They never sleep, and Sergeant Howard couldn't be wanted to, for on Thursday and Friday, all day, and Saturday morning up to bedtime, he was the only one, the single solitary member of B battery in the limits of Camp Devens. Every other blessed carrier of the Lancaster-Clinton roads some-where during the game. And Sergeant Howard declared that he wished he was with that bunch, too. That's the old spirit that is keeping the battery men from Lowell on the first line today.

The battery roster for the 1924 emigration consists of 52 men and officers. This figure is far above the minimum stipulated by the adjutant general's headquarters, and is considered an excellent quota considering the year's living conditions in Lowell and vicinity.

Only one disabled soldier was found in B battery camp today, and he is on the recovery list. He suffered a fall to both knees while getting out of "jam" with the horse he was riding during the field maneuvers conducted earlier in the week. Stacy's pluck in getting out of a difficult position is the talk of the camp this week.

Lieut. Tully of Company C, 192nd Infantry, Lowell, surprised his friends in the battery Wednesday, calling informally and accepting an invitation to dine the shoulder-strappers. He laid out a shoulder-strapper. He laid out a shoulder-strapper. He laid out a shoulder-strapper.

Tomorrow (Sunday) the B battery contingent is prepared to receive an influx of visitors from the home town. Arrangements have been made for a 12 o'clock dinner for all the folks who come, and it will be a Sunday dinner of many surprises. Lieut. Harry Jerome, popular in four counties and a flock of cities and towns including Lowell, will supervise the reception.

A special feature of the present camp is the serving of three times daily to the battery men. It is notable in every way when compared with the fearful breakdown in the 1922 regiment's commissary department. An investigation of the latter's failings in providing sufficient meals for the hundreds in that infantry organization, under way, it is reported.

Capt. Barrows' detachment has had its full share of on-the-line war same problems this week, and a performance of the 21 members of the Lowell military line has been excellent from the start. The headquarters company and combat train was never in better condition for the future, nor equipped in better condition for immediate active service.

No Rest for the Weary The battery men and combat train crew of buskies have a most imposing schedule of military encampment routine duties to perform. It is the longest "order of the day" ever prescribed and the boys are wondering how it happened. Here it is, in full:

RECOVER TEN AT COAL MINE

Rescue Workers Dig Through Debris After Explosion at Frick Plant

None Now Missing, Company Officials Say—Most Workers Escaped Injury

GATES, Pa., July 26.—The bodies of ten miners who met death last night when an explosion wrecked a section of the Gates mine of the H. C. Frick Coke company, were brought to the surface shortly after dawn today. Seventy-five miners were at work when the blast came, and a check of the company list showed that 65 reached safely.

Twenty-seven children were left fatherless as a consequence of the explosion while nine women lost their husbands. One of the victims was a widower.

The explosion, according to Coroner Bantz, was discovered in a most unusual manner. John Kelly, a Gates miner, was returning away when he noticed a peculiar settlement of dust on his shirt. Kelly stopped to investigate and found it coal dust. Knowing that the dust from a mine very rarely reaches the surface, he glanced toward the mouth of the Gates mine and saw a cloud of black dust floating from the shaft mouth.

Kelly ran to the Palmer foreman's office and sounded the alarm. Ten rescue crews donned helmets and, believing that the Palmer workings were on fire, went into that mine. Kelly recalled that an old tunnel connected the Palmer and Gates mines and he suggested that the trouble might be in latter workings. Within a few minutes the rescuers were on their way to the Gates. They soon found the cause, behind which the 10 bodies were located.

GATES, Pa., July 26.—Rescue workers digging their way step by step through the debris that blocked the entrance to the Gates mine of the H. C. Frick Coke company where an explosion occurred last night, had recovered the bodies of six men in the early morning. Company officials said four other workers are still missing. There were 120 men at work at the mine when explosion occurred, but except for the six dead and four missing men all escaped without injury.

The exact cause of the explosion was not determined. The force of it wrecked the supports and threw down a wall of coal and dirt between the two mines and their only means of escape. The rescue crews worked in three shifts throughout the night, and early this morning the first of the entombed men were brought to the surface. The rescue crews are continuing their efforts and expect to reach the remaining men within a few hours.

The explosion of last night was the second to occur here within the last few years. In February 1922, an explosion resulted in the death of 25 men.

SKILLED WORKERS IN BUILDING TRADES

Included among skilled workers in the building trades in Lowell, with a population of 112,753, last census, are 1141 carpenters, 248 plumbers and gas fitters, 354 painters, glaziers and varnishers, 248 electricians, 192 bricklayers and 31 plasterers. These figures were compiled by the United States department of commerce, following a nation wide survey and under the direction of Secretary Hoover, which disclosed that close to three million skilled workers in the United States are employed on an average, less than three-quarters of the year, and fully employed for only three to five months.

A report of the survey says that unemployment in the building trades is due to the fact that building construction has been unnecessarily limited to certain seasons.

The division of building and housing of the department of commerce is making a direct appeal to builders throughout the country for a more even distribution of construction work during all seasons for the relief of unemployment. Under present conditions there is at certain seasons a surplus of labor greater than the demand does not meet the supply.

RATTLESNAKE SEEN BY DRACUT MAN

Rattlesnakes in Middlesex county? Certainly! Walter Redman, a resident of Kearsucke avenue, Dracut Centre picking blackberries in a pasture close to West-Chester road, found a rattlesnake—large, old stripes and everything. The Dracut rattlesnake was left undisturbed in his haunts, but Mr. Redman serves notice to one and all that Dracut has 'em.

PLAN TO RENEW MELLON PROBE

Senator Couzens Aligns With Democrats in Search for Facts in Case

WASHINGTON, July 26.—A meeting today of the senate select committee authorized to investigate the internal revenue bureau resulted in the formal resignation of Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, as its chairman, his replacement by Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, and a decision for a resumption of the inquiry September 1.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Pursuing their determination to delve into the prohibition enforcement record of Secretary Mellon and the international revenue bureau, Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, and the two democrats of the special senate committee appointed to investigate the bureau, forced a meeting today to proceed with selection of counsel to assist in gathering evidence.

The committee coalition, which included Senators King of Utah and Jones of New Mexico in addition to Senator Couzens, who had been aligned at times with the La Follette group, decided yesterday to bring about resumption of the hearings September 1st, with the legal aid authorized by the senate during the controversy aroused by the Michigan senator's personal employment for the work of Francis J. Henri, San Francisco graft prosecutor, at the suggestion of Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, who has opposed further activity by the committee since its hearings were suspended because of the illness of Senator Couzens, the "prosecutor," vigorously protested against the majority plan, giving notice he would resign his chairmanship. The coalition thereupon indicated an intention to make Senator Couzens the chairman.

CHARGE MURDER 14 YEARS OLD

Atlantic City Real Estate Dealer Charged With Killing Sleeping Parents

Defendant Asserts Innocence and Blames Charge to Brother's "Spite Work"

COATESVILLE, Pa., July 26.—Benjamin F. Dorschelmer, an Atlantic City, New Jersey real estate dealer, was under arrest here today charged with the murder of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dorschelmer, in Lancaster, Pa., 14 years ago. He was to be taken to Lancaster later in the day for a hearing. Dorschelmer declared his arrest was the result of "spite work" on the part of his brother, Frank E. Dorschelmer, who swore to the warrant.

The warrant alleges that in order to obtain possession of the large estate of their father, a wealthy liquor dealer, Dorschelmer asphyxiated them as they slept. There was no explanation in the warrant for the long delay in making the charge.

Charge Completed—YORK, Pa., July 26.—Chester A. Dorschelmer was arrested today on a charge of complicity in the alleged murder of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dorschelmer, at their home in Lancaster, 14 years ago. Dorschelmer's home is in Harrisburg.

Another hero entered into the story of the thrilling rescue from a watery grave in the Concord river of Miss Rita Gargan Thursday when it became known today that Patrick Lynch, 19, of 55 Lyons street, an expert swimmer, assisted materially in the life-saving episode.

According to the latest version of the affair, Lynch grabbed the drowning girl by the hair when she was going down for the third time.

When Miss Gargan found herself sinking she grabbed James Dempsey, 14, of 57 Whipple street, and took him down with her. He succeeded in freeing himself, however, and the struggle brought both of them to the surface. Lynch, it is claimed, appeared on the scene just as the girl was going down for the last time.

It was made plain today that the state department would not tolerate without protest the situation existing in Tehran as the possibility of future attacks by natives upon American citizens in Persia. Notice of its decision in this connection was expected to be forwarded without delay to Minister Koraloff for presentation by him to the responsible officers of the Persian government.

EFFICIENCY

There is no better way to produce efficiency than to have proper working conditions. Light, ventilation, roominess, correct and systematic arrangement of fixtures and stock; all these leave the mind free to energize on essential points, in our case the compounding of prescriptions.

TAMMANY-HEARST FIGHT LIKELY OVER SMITH AND HYLAN

Wigwam Wants "Al" to Run for Governor Again—Publisher Favorable to Candidacy of Mayor—Tammany and Smith Both Silent

NEW YORK, July 26.—Intimation by Mayor John F. Hylan, who is now in California, with William Hearst, that he might run for the democratic nomination for governor if the progressives demand it, caused a flurry in political circles today.

George W. Olney, the new leader of Tammany Hall, withheld comment. He recently urged Governor Smith to enter the race for reelection.

It is no secret that there is a wide political gap between the governor and the mayor. The mayor has the confidence of Mr. Hearst. On Thursday the governor issued a statement at Albany directed at Mr. Hearst in which he said that when the democratic party "needs advice it will go to democrats for it and not to either a demagogue or crackpot."

Friends of Governor Smith who talked with him over the telephone learned that the executive would not talk for publication until he had seen the text of Mayor Hylan's statement.

ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY FOR THE MAYORALTY

Stephen C. Garrity today makes formal announcement of his candidacy for the office of mayor this year. In a statement prepared for the press he says among other things that if elected he proposes to devote his administration to the further upbuilding of the physical, mental and moral progress of the city.

He recognized that the interests of the direct taxpayers should be considered, but that the interests of the many thousand indirect taxpayers should be considered much more diligently than has been the case in the past.

Mr. Garrity favors immediate action toward the erection of a new school in the South End district, a new Central bridge, a revision of the standards of value used in the assessing of commercial property and a definite program to cope with unemployment conditions.

"The New England town meeting still is my idea of community government and the closer we can get to that line the better," says the candidate, "and rule by committees, commissions or city managers has no place in my theory of city government."

CASES DISPOSED OF IN DISTRICT COURT

The marital troubles of Madeline and Leopold Lissner were concluded as far as the district court is concerned, when Judge Ehrlich, this morning, found the husband guilty of non-support and ordered him committed to the house of correction for a period of three months. Defendant appealed the sentence and was ordered to recognize in $300 bonds for his appearance in superior court.

Timothy E. Riordan was adjudged guilty of non-support, and was ordered to pay $10 weekly to his wife's support.

Frank Blodgett, arrested in Billerica some time ago, was sentenced to one month in the house of correction for operating an automobile while he was under the influence of liquor. A charge of drunkenness was placed on file.

Clifford Novel and Thaurie Cote, charged with illegal keeping, pleaded not guilty and were continued until July 29.

Martin Regan, drunkenness, was given a suspended sentence of three months in the house of correction.

LIQUOR CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Two liquor raids yesterday resulted in the imposition of $100 fines in each instance in district court this morning.

The first defendant was Jan Lakobezky of Church st., who was found guilty of illegal keeping. He was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officers John Leahy and William Liston of the liquor squad, who found two stills in operation on his premises, together with 50 gallons of alleged moonshine, 100 gallons of mash and several empty bottles and jugs. The catch was regarded as an unusually good one as it marked the first time since January that a still has been found in operation in this city.

The same officers raided the store of Stella P. Blomond in Adams street. When the owner recognized the officers, she attempted to break a bottle containing liquid, but Officer Leahy beat her to it and captured the evidence before it could be destroyed. Meanwhile, while searching in the cellar, Officer Leahy uncovered a small quantity of moonshine which had been buried in a "dirt floor."

SUFFERED SINCE YOUNG GIRL

Words Failed to Express Benefit Received from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Greenville, Texas.—"Words can not express how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. Every month I would have nervousness and headache, and I felt like I was freezing to death. I suffered in this way from the time I was a young girl, and all the doctors said was 'operation.' For months I had a tired, sleepy feeling all day, and when night would come I would be so nervous I couldn't stay in bed. Our druggist recommended the Vegetable Compound to my husband and he bought four bottles. I have taken every one and I think I have a right to praise your medicine."—Mrs. J. B. HOLLEMAN, 2214 E. Marshall St., Greenville, Texas.

For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been used by women from girlhood through middle age.

It is a dependable medicine for troubles common to women. Such symptoms as Mrs. Holleman had are relieved by correcting the cause of the trouble. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Massachusetts Pays Dividend

The regular quarterly dividend of $2 per share on Massachusetts Cotton Mills stockholdings, due at this time, has been declared, according to official announcements published in the usual newspaper channels in New York and Boston. Payments are to be made on August 11 to stockholders of record on July 22.

Most mills are running, some departments a full week, closing up old-time schedules at 11.30 a.m. Saturday morning.

Dispatches from Huntsville, Ala., announce that the Merrimack Manufacturing company's new southern plant located in that city, renewed production of textile goods on July 19 and is now running "full time."

An odd feature of the situation in Huntsville today involves the closing of three other large textile mills for lack of orders. The silent three are the Huntsville Knitting company, the Margaret mills and the West Huntsville Cotton mills, which were closed two weeks ago.

The Merrimack's southern mill was shut down tightly on July 10, during which time the corporation did some extensive machinery overhauling work in the plant.

The Bone and Sinew

The readers of THE SUN are the bone and sinew of Lowell. They are practically all Lowell people who have helped to make the city what it is.

They earn their living in Lowell; they spend their money in Lowell; they are the main support of the Lowell merchants.

SUN readers are not in the habit of running to Boston for their supplies. They trade at home.

They are the largest body of newspaper readers in the city, and few of them read any other paper because they don't need to.

There is only one way for the merchant to reach this large, thrifty, industrious and intelligent body of readers, and that is through the columns of THE SUN.

EXPRESS COMPANY MAKES NEW RECORD

The American Railway express company has made a new record in the campaign promoted by the carriers of the country at large, to prevent loss or damage to shipments in transit, according to announcement made today by C. F. Langley, agent in charge in Lowell.

Figures just tabulated for the month ending June 30 show that 236 shipments in every thousand are involved in claims, giving the express service a performance record of 99.8 per cent. The June claim ratio is the lowest in history of the express company since its formation six years ago. It is an improvement, also, of more than 25 per cent, as compared with the June record in 1923.

Agent Langley states that he is gratified by the progress made in solving the claim problem. Local shippers have co-operated by giving more attention to the careful preparation of their shipments, he declares.

WALL STREET ITEMS

A revival of interest in the sugar stock has followed the recent rise in the price of refined sugar and reports that refiners were contracting for raws at higher prices. Sharing in the improvement have been the securities of Punta Alegre, Cuba Cane, Eastern Cuba, American Sugar Refining and Manati Co.

Cushman's Son, Inc., did a record business in the half year ended June 30. Net earnings increased 33 per cent over the corresponding period. Last year equal after preferred dividends to $3.58 a share on the common stock. Working capital aggregated $1,151,687.

Net earnings of the Hercules Powder Co., dropped to $79,572 in the first six months of 1924 from $1,512,506 a year ago, equal to $3.63 a share on the common stock against $5.09 a share in the first half of 1923. Gross receipts were $10,324,658.

Probable dividend action by the directors of the United States Steel Co. after next Thursday is absorbing attention in the financial district. The opinion in usually well-informed circles being that the next dividend of fifty cents will be declared on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 1 1/4 per cent and the 1 1/2 per cent on the preferred.

The New York Central's net operating income of $20,811,052 for the first half of 1924 indicates on the seasonal variation basis an annual rate of about 15 per cent on the stock for 1924 compared with actual earnings of 16.9 per cent in 1923.

The British government received remittance dyes from Germany valued at $44,200 in the financial year 1923-1924, according to the Bankers Trust Co. of New York. The gross amount received for the sale of dye stuffs, which includes an accumulation from previous years, was $1,762,250, while the total amount of commission and all other charges incurred in disposing of the dyes, including freight from Germany and storage was $194,640. The value of the total amount of dyes received from Germany since these shipments began in 1920 was $2,012,000. Sales amounted to $2,571,000 and commissions and other charges totaled $1,062,670 or 18.21 per cent of the sale.

Week-end profit-taking interrupted the upward movement of prices in today's market, giving opening quotations an irregular appearance. New 1924 bids were established in the first few minutes of trading by Kinney company up 3 points, and Consolidated Gas and Sears Roebuck, which improved fractionally. Rails were mixed, Rock Island 7 per cent, preferred dropping a point.

The main price movement continued upward with good buying power developing in the sugar, merchandising and public utility sectors, additional gains being reported by Brooklyn Union Gas, Montgomery Ward, Associated Dry Goods, General Electric, Connecticut Copper and Public Service of New Jersey 8 per cent, preferred, all selling ranging from fractions to four points.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 26.—Stock prices continued to seek higher levels today, despite week-end profit taking in several sections of the list. Reviving prosperity in the western agricultural regions was reflected in the buoyancy of the mail order issues and the steady accumulation of the shares of grain-carrying railroads. Several realized industrial leaders, notably American Can, which crossed 120 for the first time in months, and Baldwin, which moved up a point, also took a prominent part in the advance. Kinney & Co., extended its gain to 7 points, General Electric to five and Associated Dry Goods, Manatt Sugar and Mathison all moved up to 3 to 5 points. The closing was strong. Sales approximated 500,000 shares.

Many Wives to Be Reclaimed
By Parents Because Not Paid For

OLYMPIA, Wash., July 26.—The evil day of reckoning for many natives of Pondoland, South Africa, is at hand, writes George Tweedie, who is stationed at an isolated British trading post in the interior of that region. In a recent letter to his brother, Archibald C. Tweedie, of the state department of labor and industries.

For the last three years during a period of mourning for the death of a paramount chief, Marelana, there has existed a moratorium and the usual payment of a dowry in exchange for a wife has been suspended. Now, however, Mr. Tweedie writes, the mourning is over and Pondos who obtained their wives on credit must pay up their debts or return their bought-but-not-paid-for wives to the parental kraal.

"The usual fee for a wife is from three to ten head of cattle or horses, in the case of commoners, and in the case of a chief's daughter, as much as 25 head," Mr. Tweedie explained. "A good many I know of have not a hoof to their names and I am afraid they will have to return to bachelorhood. This will accelerate recruiting boys for the gold mines, as they have to get money somewhere."

Mr. Tweedie has been in the interior of Pondoland for the last fifteen years.

Ham Mousse

Two cups finely chopped cold boiled ham, ¼ cup white stock, 1 teaspoon granulated gelatin, ½ cup whipping cream.

Chop and pound the ham until smooth. Season well with mustard and paprika. Soften gelatin in cold water. Bring stock to the boiling point and stir in gelatin. Add to ham and mix well. When cold fold in the cream whipped until stiff. Turn into a mold and set on ice to chill and become firm. Scraps of ham picked from the bone and the ends are delicious used up this way. A knuckle of veal well cracked should be boiled with celery and onion and the usual "bouquet garni" for the stock. If veal or chicken stock, if you live on a farm, is kept on hand in the summer time, many delicious and out of the ordinary dishes can be made with little effort.

salt, 4 tablespoons milk, 1 cup finely chopped nuts, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream butter and stir in sugar.

And eggs well beaten. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and stir into first mixture. Mix thoroughly. Stir in milk and vanilla. Add nuts. Drop from teaspoon onto oiled and floured cookie sheet and bake fifteen to twenty minutes in a slow oven.

Drop cookies are specially nice in hot weather as they take much less time to make than the rolled and cut ones.

Dinner—Fricassee of lamb, new potatoes with minced parsley, lima beans in cream, cucumber and watercress salad, toasted wafers, halves of cantaloupe filled with mixed fruit, half cups of coffee.

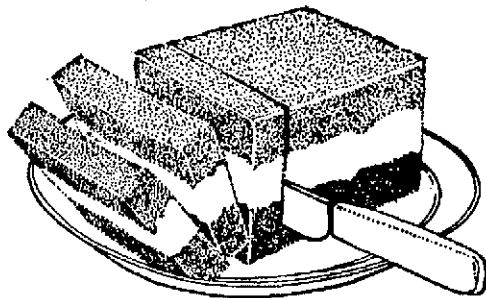

Lamb Fricassee
Three pounds shoulder of lamb, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 3 teaspoons salt, 1 small onion, ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups lamb stock.

In the morning trim and cut the lamb in pieces convenient for serving. Put in kettle with onion and 6 cups of water and simmer until tender. Remove from liquor and cool. Cut stock and remove fat. Season meat with salt and pepper when about half done. Melt butter and sauté meat until a pale straw color. Sift over flour and mix well, being sure every bit of flour is absorbed by the butter and meat. Strain over 2 cups of lamb stock and cook, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Serve on a platter and garnish with tiny points of toast.

It won't take more than fifteen minutes to prepare this dish at dinner time. New potatoes should cook in half an hour and lima beans in the same time. Half an hour of work will get this dinner.

LET THE PENALTY FIT THE CRIME

The trial of young Leopold and Loeb, the murderers of the Franks boy at Chicago, is of deep interest, especially to the parents of this country. The wealth of their parents and the ingenuity of able lawyers will be used to defeat the ends of justice, but the fiendishness of the crime committed by these two "intellectual" young men, calls loudly for the extreme penalty of the law. If the prisoners should escape with life imprisonment, or if they should be adjudged insane and disposed of as was Harry Thaw, only to be released through influence later on, the entire country would be shocked at the miscarriage of justice. Parents of young boys and girls would no longer feel that their children had any protection against the human brutes, aye the human degenerates who degrade their humanity below the status of the ordinary beast.

Since the perpetration of this Chicago crime, another young boy has been done to death in New York by some unknown brute of the most revolting bestial depravity. There will be various others of a similar kind reported if these two fiends in Chicago escape the gallows. The question, therefore, is one of upholding the supremacy of law and the majesty of justice, and of protecting society against criminals of the very worst type to the end that children will not be made the prey of degenerates as ferocious as tigers fresh from the jungle.

The primal object of the Franks murder was to obtain money from the boy's father, a man of great wealth. It had been supposed that the kidnapping business with ransom or blackmail letters, had been resorted to only by noted criminals who came here from other countries; but now we find it practised in the most fiendish manner by two young men of wealthy parentage and high intellectual training. It is to be regretted that their religious training did not go hand in hand with the intellectual. Had they been well trained in the laws of the decalogue, had they been taught to observe the commandments "Thou shalt not steal," "Thou shalt not kill," they could never have been tempted to commit such a foul murder as that of which they have pleaded guilty.

"Specialists" called to show, if possible, that the youths are not responsible for their conduct, will expatiate upon the operation of the endocrine glands which are said to control the functions of the body and mind; and it will be contended that these youths are not responsible for their crime because their pineal and pituitary glands are abnormal. Of course, all this can be advanced with equal force in behalf of any criminal, and hence it should be rejected as wholly irrelevant and a mere concoction of undemonstrated theories devised, if possible, to impose upon the credulity of the court which in view of the plea of guilty will have to assume the responsibility of deciding whether the prisoners shall expiate their crime upon the gallows.

Unless the penalty of the law be applied with inexorable justice in this case, then respect for the law and the courts, now unfortunately lower in this country than in most other civilized nations, will fall still lower, and as a result, fiendish murders will become so numerous that the people may be forced to resort to lynch law for their own protection against the menace of such vile criminals as the two Chicago youths or the unknown murderer of the McDonnell boy in New York. The whole problem in this case is merely one of adapting the punishment to the crime. Let that be done and the cause of justice will be fully vindicated.

In the coming election the women of this country will have what is really their first opportunity to vote intelligently in a national election. It is true that they were vested with the right to vote by the proclamation of the 19th amendment on August 18, 1920; but in the few months preceding the election, they did not all have time to grasp the importance of the occasion, and hence it is, that in the coming election they are expected to vote in full force and with a fairly clear understanding of the issues involved. It is necessary, in the first place, to realize that in the exercise of the suffrage, the voter applies a part of the sovereignty vested in the people under our republican form of government. Thus the people are privileged to select their own rulers to conduct the government for the next four years.

If the present administration be found incompetent, inefficient or unfaithful to the great responsibilities placed in its hands, then it is the duty of every citizen to vote against it, and to vote for the candidates who will best serve the interests of the country.

It will be observed also, that in voting for the candidates of a party, the voter is not only selecting the management of the government, but also the management of the national treasury to take offense at the policies and policies which that party may adopt. It is impossible to control the government for the next four years.

After passing through such a period of dull business, the need of a change is obvious, and the only change that can be made with full confidence of bringing about improved conditions is to place the democratic party in power.

The third party headed by La Follette is socialist or poly, but that is, it is made up of a lot of non-descript elements, the most important of which is the socialist party which has placed its support to the La Follette ticket.

It is of the utmost importance, therefore, that the women in the coming election shall realize their power and use it for the best interests of the country, as in so doing they will best serve their own interests and those of all the people.

In order to vote intelligently, it will be necessary for the women voters as well as all others to discount political claptrap framed to delude the voters into supporting candidates whose election will not promote the welfare of their constituents and will,

therefore, be constructively opposed to the interests of all the people.

The thing to remember is the individual responsibility for the proper use of the franchise now placed in the hands of every woman citizen of this nation. The number of women voters should, therefore, be nearly equal to that of the male voters; and it should be regarded as a patriotic duty to vote at the national election and vote for the candidates and the policies most likely to restore prosperity and thus benefit all the people. In our judgment, the democratic ticket and platform will meet this requirement very much better than those of any other party seeking support at the polls in November.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES

The indiscreet antics and howling of the crowd attending the Olympic games, did not affect the high standard to select their own rulers to conduct the government for the next four years.

It is not taken seriously, either by the committees in charge or the nations whose representatives entered into the competition. Nobody can control the people who root for their favorites or against those whom they wish to see duty of every citizen to vote against it, and to vote for the candidates who will best serve the interests of the country.

It is of the utmost importance, therefore, that the women in the coming election shall realize their power and use it for the best interests of the country, as in so doing they will best serve their own interests and those of all the people.

In order to vote intelligently, it will be necessary for the women voters as well as all others to discount political claptrap framed to delude the voters into supporting candidates whose election will not promote the welfare of their constituents and will,

therefore, be constructively opposed to the interests of all the people.

The thing to remember is the individual responsibility for the proper use of the franchise now placed in the hands of every woman citizen of this nation.

the benefits to be drawn from the national fund by the unemployed. This fund is maintained partly by the government, partly by employers and partly by operatives. It now shows a large deficit; but it has been advancing toward a semblance of solvency, and, but for additional burdens now imposed, it would become solvent early next year, according to best authorities on the subject.

The liberal minister of labor in the coalition government, on the other hand, thinks a "grave risk is being made." Able men engaged in studies of "work insurance" measures on this side of the Atlantic, pretty much agree that such measures are profound mistakes, giving benefits as they do on a very slender contributory basis. The vast army of the unemployed in England today, of course, favors the bill solidly.

THE STONE OF DESTINY

Scotland wants to get the "Stone of Scone," or the "Stone of Destiny," removed from Westminster Abbey to Holyrood palace, Edinburgh. There is not much chance of the request being granted by the British parliament, owing to the many interesting legends and traditions attached to the stone and its remarkable history. It originally belonged to Ireland and it was on this stone the Irish kings were crowned on the hill of Tara. It was said to have been brought to Ireland by Pharaoh's daughter and that it was the same stone on which Jacob reposed at Bethel when he saw the angels ascending and descending the ladder. He was this as may be, the stone was removed to a monastery at Scone in the eighth century and one of the prophecies connected with it, and which made it so celebrated, was, that wherever it rested, there a sovereign of Scotland should reign supreme. Ever since it was carried to Westminster in 1296 by Edward I of England, the sovereigns of England have been largely of Scottish ancestry. There is not much interest in this relic of early Celtic power; but even though the legends now connected with this famous stone are discredited, England is not likely to risk letting it out of her possession.

NATURE'S WAY

Why a very useful man is cut off and a worthless one allowed to drag out a weary existence, is one of the most common results of the law of Nature.

The man who lives long may have started with a strong constitution or he may have conformed to the laws of health, whereas had he rushed into danger at every turn or disregarded the laws of health, he could not expect to live as long as he otherwise would. All of which is in strict accord with the Divine plan under which men may shorten or prolong their own lives by their mode of living.

We eat and drink far more than most of us realize. For instance, the milk used by Americans averages 213 quarts a year for every man, woman and child. That is close to a pint and a half a day apiece. You probably do not know many who drink that much. It reaches consumers in the form of cheese, butter and mixed in soups and other prepared foods.

If you do not eat 10 quarts of ice cream this year, you are not getting your full share.

AS TO SENATOR WALSH

It is no small compliment to Senator David I. Walsh to find that a paper so bitterly opposed to him as is the Courier-Clifton has to draw upon the imagination of its editors in an effort to make him appear ridiculous. The senator's republican assailants, however, cannot charge him with being amused with oil. Senator Walsh spent much of his time during the last session of Congress, fighting the republican corruptionists of the veterans' bureau.

Some of the Cape towns have started a crusade against the motorists who litter the roadsides with papers, tin cans and garbage where they stop to lunch. There is good ground for complaint on account of this carelessness. It should be stopped everywhere. The Cape district is not the only one that has good ground for complaining on account of such carelessness by auto tourists.

An unreliable fire alarm is dangerous and may be worse than worthless. The first essential in fire fighting is to locate the incipient blaze at the earliest possible moment. The erratic alarm of Wednesday evening, registered the need of a new system or prompt repairs of the old.

France cannot see why she should waive her claim for 22 billions while Germany is paying off a $200,000,000 loan. She realizes that if her claims were to wait upon payment of this loan, she might have to wait indefinitely. She is not disposed to take any chances of that kind.

When the numerous uses of rubber are considered, it may be realized how vast must be the supply. Rubber is now being used for paving and for this purpose it has been highly commended for durability and safety. It would seem that if all the old auto tires were salvaged, they might supply much material for paving bridges.

Building reports from 27 cities of this state show a slowing down in June from the amount of the permits for May which is but natural. Lowell should endeavor to keep ahead in construction work. It is a good time to go forward even if other cities go backward.

If a lunch-cart be stuck in every hole in the wall along the public streets, the result will be, that none will do a paying business and the price of the food served will be raised while the quality will be lowered.

SEEN AND HEARD

The faster a rumor travels the wilder it grows.

Give a pig a chance and he will make a hog of himself.

All people worry because they are either married or single.

The shortest dramatic review is attributed to a Londoner, A. B. Walkley, in his criticism of a play called "A Dreadful Evening." He wrote "Excellent" and then stopped.

A Thought

Peace and wickedness are far asunder.—Stillington.

Tell-Tale Breath

"I think I heard an alarm of fire," he said, as they were seated in the theatre, "and I must go out and see about it." Returning after 15 minutes he remarked: "It wasn't a fire." "And it wasn't water!" she said still more briefly.

Life After Death

Two women went for a walk and presently climbed to a cemetery which overlooks one of the most beautiful valleys in Yorkshire. "I think," said one of them to her friend, after they had admired the view, "that I should like to be buried here. It's such a healthy spot."

Long Distance

A man went into a telephone booth and started what appeared to be a protracted conversation. He had left the door ajar. A line composed of men, waiting their turn, formed outside. Now and then they could hear the chap in the booth murmur, "Yes, my angel." A drummer joined the line just in time to hear an emphatic "Yes, my angel," said the drummer, "central's given somebody Heaven."

"Parked Chewing Gum"

A use for "parked" chewing gum has been found. Tom Steinhousend, Haverhill, N. C., took his younger brother, Bud, with him to Charlotte in an effort to ascertain whether or not his car was among the 47 recovered when a gang of automobile thieves had been rounded up. Numbers had been switched and cars repossessed. But Bud would not be denied. "That's your silver, Tom," Bud opined, "I stuck a wad of chewing gum in the top and I bet it is still there." It was.

Scheme Detected

An old gentleman went into a 10-cent store and sidled around from counter to counter in a somewhat mysterious manner. He bought some bolts, some cardboard, some wire, and then went over and began to rattle the tinware. "What is he up to?" whispered a girl customer. "I think," responded her chum, "he has a scheme he doesn't want anybody to get onto." "Scheme?" "Looks to me like he is buying the parts and is going to assemble an automobile."

Not Ordinary Idlers

A man slipped on a banana peel and executed a very funny fall, not being hurt, as it turned out, but having his dignity somewhat ruffled. When he recovered a moment later a number of people had formed a circle. "What do these idlers do?" snarled. "They are not idlers," explained his friend soothingly. "Here's a doctor who wants to look you over, a lawyer ready to bring suit for you, and a producer of comic films who would like to sign you up."

The proprietor of a village store was sitting with the loafers who had formed a circle around the stove. His sole assistant was a youngster who had lately drifted in from parts unknown. A woman entered and asked for a pound of cheese. She would not allow the assistant to wait on her, but insisted on having the proprietor. The lad must have been trained in some city office, for to this demand he made firm reply: "Can't disturb him now. He's in conference."

The Reporter

Behold him! He is the omnipresent, the ubiquitous, The everywhereful! He springs from nowhere, Paces as a hound is eager in the chase His nose sniffing And his ears a-cock.

In his pockets are many stabs Of pencils gone in service—Stubs bit and chewed. Sawed off and sharpened again. All waiting to leap forth And mark their histories Down on paper.

For him the copy readers wait, And the linotypes, The soup, the dope, the autopsies, The great processions of steel, Elephantine things that grind To make men's fortunes or To break their pride.

Into the thick of life he plunges, Into its comedies, its tragedies, His heartbeats and its romances! Here listening to the halting lies Of a too willing witness: These viewing the remains (Or hunch-driven juggernaut!) Or dolled up for the party, Taking names of those present At Mrs. Thingumbob's Whatchacallit!

Behold him! With his meers he hammers His intelligence through The wreck of an office typewriter! With sang froid and aplomb Turns in his offering, Watching solemnly as it is ruined By an incompetent and ailing Of a cold-blooded copy desk.

It is some years since the congenial lieutenant has served in that capacity. It is seldom also that the deputy takes a day off. Lieutenant Maher was right at home, however, and performed like a veteran.

QUARTER CENTURY AGO

"An industrial commission sat in Lowell 25 years ago at which time a hearing was given on textile education. Among the prominent witnesses at the hearing were Sec. James T. Smith of the board of trade, J. L. Chaffoux, ex-councilman C. J. Howe, C. P. Brooks, former director of the Lowell Textile school, E. D. McVey, Esq., Peter Caddell, Thomas F. Connolly and many others. The gentleman in the commission included Hon. Ellerson Smythe of South Carolina, Hon. John Farguhar of Buffalo, N. Y., and Col. Albert Clark of Wellesley. They were accompanied by a stenographer and a Boston newspaperman. Secretary Smith explained the purpose of the Textile school and its offerings and accomplishments. He told of the tendencies of the various races who make up our population and the stability of character prominent among those races.

Principal Crosby of the Textile school also told of the advantages offered to the textile industry by the Textile school.

Patriarchs Militant

Canton A. Patriarchs Militant, I. O. O. F. of Nashua, entertained several guests at its first day, held at Lakeview 25 years ago. Following a bountiful banquet which was served at the noon hour, the Patriarchs went to the ball ground where a game was played between Nashua and Worcester teams. The committee in charge was as follows: Chairman, Commandant G. E. Danforth; Maj. W. F. Barnes, Lieut. E. P. Johnson, Ensign E. T. Gilson, Chaplain E. B. Tarbell, N. E. Rogers and F. W. Farnham.

Wolf Tone Guards

The fifth annual picnic of the Wolf Tone Guards was held at Shawshoos River guards 25 years ago. The party made the trip by train arriving at the grove in schedule time. A fine program of sports was put on, including 100-yard dash, shot put and baseball. Following the sports general dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. The officers in charge were: General manager, Capt. Patrick Crimmins; assistant, First Lieut. Michael Gallagher; floor marshal, Second Lieut. Patrick Cashman; assistant, First Sergt. Patrick Farrell. An able committee assisted the general officers.

city. We don't believe in extras like some outfits we know of.

I understand that new and lighter weight uniforms for members of the police traffic squad are now assured and that they will be forthcoming from a Boston outfit within a week or so. To do traffic duty in a spot for any length of time with suits as heavy as the present regulation ones is almost cruelly and several of the traffic men have said it was almost impossible to withstand the heat of the sun on many days of the present month. We do not know just what arrangements have been made for the purchase of the new uniforms, but the city should stand all of it. It is a duty it owes the men it places on sun baked corners to keep traffic in check.

It just occurs to us how Harry G. Lawson of Lowell, purser on the S. S. Boston that was rammed off Point Judith, escaped newspaper reporters in New York city. Mr. Lawson spoke of it during an interview yesterday. He had been wounded to death and had made many statements and wanted a little relief and rest. He thought of a Turkish bath and put his thoughts into quick execution. "I remained there for about three hours," he said, "and while it probably did me a considerable amount of physical good it also helped me out a lot mentally." And we can see how it might.

Stephen Flynn, city clerk, is one of the proudest men in the city and the reason is that one of his kin, Desmond Burke of Ottawa, Canada, won the king's prize in the recent shooting competition at Biscay Camp, England. From the daily papers in Ottawa, of which "Steve" has several copies, it would seem that the winning of this competition was very similar to our own Henry Sullivan's feat in swimming the English channel. Young Burke, who is but 19 years old, is acquainted in the dailies as one of the wonder shots of the world, score 230 out of a possible 250 points and defeating the best of the British army. One of the first to congratulate young Burke was the Prince of Wales, and congratulations were also forwarded to him by King George, the governor-general and premier of Canada. The leading citizens of Ottawa are planning a great reception to Burke when he returns and Mr. Flynn wishes it could be possible for him to be among those who welcome the conqueror home again.

SHAKESPEARE

This figure, that thou here seest put, It was for gentle Shakespeare cut; Wherein the Graver had a strife With Nature to outdo the life: Oh, could he but have drawn his wit As well in brass, as he hath hit His face; the Print would then surpass All that was ever writ in brass. But since he cannot, Reader, look Not at his picture, but his book. —Ben Jonson.

HOME MADE

There's a magic little word that makes a fellow want to eat. It's a word that never can be overplayed. Every time that you may hear it, it suggests a wholesome treat, and the little word I think of is homemade.

You appreciate the foodstuffs that are purchased at the store and they satisfy the appetite, 'tis true. But the grub that makes you happy; makes you holler for some more, is the food that mother cooks herself for you.

Apple pie that fairly savors of the finest kind of taste is the kind that makes you hungry when you're not. It's the brand that mother bakes you and no portion goes to waste, for the pie, from start to finish, hits the spot.

Homemade bread is baked at morning and it seldom lasts till night, though a baker's loaf is not as strongly played. Is it just that mother makes it in a way that seems just right? What's the reason that you like it best homemade?

Even parents have the habit and they get the homemade thrill! It's a trait that in each living soul is born. Though it isn't to their liking, yet they'll eat their fullest fill, when a youngster in the family pops some corn.

Telephone Company Wanted Franchise The petitioners of the Globe Telephone Company of Virginia for the right to operate a telephone and telegraph system in this city, was given a hearing before the board of aldermen 25 years ago. The new company was at the time a recently incorporated affair with no plant or system in operation. As it was the first attempt of the company to obtain a franchise, it was generally regarded with skepticism while the New England company, which was then in operation, had witnesses present to oppose the system. The application was rejected after a hearing.

Organized Machinists John J. Connolly, organizer of the international association of machinists, arrived here 25 years ago to reorganize the machinists of the city whose union collapsed during the hard times. Mr. Connolly, a fluent and instructive speaker upon the labor subject, was cordially greeted by the local men and received general encouragement and backing.

25 Years Wed Charles W. Tobin and Miss Jennie Coyne were united in marriage at St. Joseph's cathedral, Manchester, by Rt. Rev. Denis M. Bradley, July 25, 1899. Thomas Corcoran of this city, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Attending the wedding were several guests from Lowell, where the couple had many friends.

Mr. Broadbent Surprised Mr. Robert Broadbent of the firm of Stockpole & Company was pleasantly surprised at his home, 171 Smith street, 25 years ago when his fellow workers presented him and his wife a beautiful velvet couch in return for an entertainment given them at the time of Mr. Broadbent's marriage, a short time before.

FRANCIS & LESSARD
ALWAYS UP-TO-DATE

Nothing is ever found wanting in
the food and vegetable line at Francis & Lessard's market, Centralville, if it is in season. In winter, household delicacies in foods are always on sale in popular selections. In the spring,
summer and autumn months, favorite food products of the farms and gardens are always in generous supply and eager demand. The Bridge street provision market at No. 370, has a customer clientele today that cannot be equalled by any similar mart of trade
of its size and goods distribution capacities in Lowell or vicinity.
In the summer months, beside the Bridge street main headquarters, there
is a prosperous establishment dealing
in similar lines of groceries, meats and vegetables, etc., at popular Hampton
beach, where many summer residents obtain all of their food supplies for cottage breakfasts, dinners and suppers and special celebrations.

The Francis & Lessard market offers
each week special reductions in meats,
lamb, pork, fowl, veal, etc. Their advertisements in The Sun should be closely followed by customers who want to take advantage of the many hargain sales that occur during the week and every day in the busy week.
Food prices are always the lowest in Lowell at the Bridge street establishment, formerly known as "The Depot
Cash Market," and good words from a host of old customers of the store, are bringing in new customers daily to the
numbers.

WIDE AWAKE AGENCY

Truck owners prefer transportation
vehicles that will stand hard use
without repairs. They prefer trucks
with known ability to stand up in this way on long and short transportation
hauls. Federal trucks are noted for their ability to withstand hard usage, knockabouts, heavy loads and strenuous hauls over every kind of road, responsible and otherwise.

Owners of Federal trucks have the
extra satisfaction of knowing that there is a splendid service station always awaiting them at 1040 Gorham
street, whenever they desire to have their highway conveyances overhauled, adjusted, "gassed" or oiled.
The Federal service station on Gorham street, managed and operated by the genial Ralph B. Comins, has been established so long that every truck-
driver, familiar with Federal trucks
and Federal service, knows the quickest way to the doors of this establishment, and always obtains perfect
satisfaction.

The Federal trucks have made many new cross-country transportation haul records this year. The history of the automobile "inter-city" carrier is well known too. It is substantially built to remain in a sturdy condition
for years. It is distributed to buyers
in the various ton-capacities, the prices are the lowest in the world and prices are the Federal quality and to own a Federal is a mark of genuine
distinction in auto-transportation circles today.

AMBRICOAL IN THE
FAVORITE STOVE SIZE

Lajoie Coal company announces that
it has just received another consig-ment of the now very popular "Franklin Ambricoal," prepared for immediate stove usage. It is superior to coke and
actually the best fuel outside the regular prepared sizes of anthracite. The Lajoie concern, it may be stated has
sold this coal for several years, and it has always given full satisfaction.
The price now is $14.50 per ton,
and it is worth a great deal more, as a host of satisfied patrons of this fuel testify.

The well known coal-distributing concern some time ago issued formal announcements to the people of Lowell and vicinity covering some important phases of the present situation in
the bituminous and anthracite coals.
There is no question but what a shortage in the popular anthracites will come later on, if not early in the winter, then a little later on, for there is not enough coal being mined today to
no chances of mining enough more before next year to fill every bin to capacity.

Not so many miners have been working this year as usual, and while there has been enough hard coal distributed
to meet the small summer months' demand, there will soon be pressing calls for larger shipments to meet fall and winter orders. All coal merchants agree that retail prices will be higher before
long, and all of the merchants, including the Lajoie Coal company, strongly recommend the filling of the home and business establishment bins without delay, if patrons are to save money
and secure their full supplies at the same time.

The Lajoie Coal company has a handy down-town office at 110 Central
street, where orders can be left any week day and receive prompt attention. The Central street telephone number is 637. The headquarters, distributing plant and general offices are located at 1012 Gorham street; the telephone number is 2728.

MONUMENT WORK OF QUALITY AT ALL TIMES

The John P. Meehan company, monument workers long located at 1055 Gorham street in the neighborhood of Lowell's beautiful acres, where a host of Lowell's revered dead lie sleeping, is a firm with a New England-wide reputation in its line of endeavor. Everything in finest granite and marble for construction into monuments for the dead, is provided promptly by this reputable concern to meet all requirements of the usual discriminating customers.

Many of the most attractive and impressive memorials to the dead in Lowell cemeteries, are Meehan-constructed. The reputation of the company is such that orders are received regularly from far distances, with selections left to the expert advisers of the established monument firm. The quality of all carving, shaping and polishing performed by this reputable monument working company, cannot be surpassed. Advice is given freely on all orders, and the recommendations of John P. Meehan's expert granite and marble cutters can be relied upon invariably.

WATSON SHOE COMPANY

HOLDS OUTING

The annual outing of the C. V. Watson Shoe company, of 341 Middlesex
street, took place today at Nantasket
beach. The party, numbering about 275 men and women, made the trip in
25 touring cars and four large trucks.
They left the city at 8.30 this morning.

Immediately following arrival at the beach the entire party donned bathing
suits and plunged into the briny. Impromptu races were inaugurated, both in the water and on the sand. Under the leadership of Percy Sinclair, superintendent of the plant, chairman
various sports were held on the beach,
followed by exhibitions in trick swimming and diving by Wilfred Cole and Catherine Flynn.

At noon the party broke up into

groups and had dinner at the place
they chose. In the afternoon a baseball game was staged on the beach between both fellows and girls. Dancing
will occupy the greater part of the evening. The party will make the feture trip to Lowell at 11 o'clock.

The committee in charge of the outing was as follows: Percy Sinclair, superintendent of the plant, chairman;
Catherine Flynn, John Gerin, Jennie
Coloun, Oscar Anderson and Mary
Smith.

"Only the best" is the motto of W.
E. Dodge and company, handling fire, automobile and all other liability insurance problems in Wyman's Exchange offices on Central street, in the busiest section of busy Lowell. This long-established house of insurance
was founded in 1893. Edson K. Humphrey is the proprietor today, but the old, familiar and honored name "W.
E. Dodge and company" is still used in the firm's widespread advertising
as always. And nearly everybody knows this firm, particularly those who have to do with insuring property of all kinds.

The long and useful record of this well known insurance house proves its integrity, fair dealings and careful attention to the discriminating demands of its customers. The expansion of the business under the direction of Prop. Dodge has been remarkable and the results satisfactory to insured
and insurers from many standpoints.
It pays to deal with a reliable insurance house like the popular concern long established in Wyman's Exchange.

Liability insurance is a growing
business with this concern. Prop.
need insurance protection, give ready
advice on all matters relating to liability insurance and also arrange for
the placing of suitable insurance protection on properties of all kinds.
There are policies issued by firms of national reputation here. The Dodge
company handles only the best.

teries, in charging, in adjusting the ucts won't go wrong. That is why the feminines from coast-to-coast contain garment selections from this recognized house of fashion and desirable sities.

ley Shepard frock, selling for twenty-five dollars, and found in sizes up to 48 at that price and in larger sizes up to twenty-eight dollars, are greatly in a city seldom have the facilities for successful laundry work. At these laundries, there is every factor that contributes to laundry work that will give you entire satisfaction at the Highland Steam laundry.

It is cheaper to use a modern laundry than to hire a laundress, nowapossible to fit any family budget. Just ask the Highland Steam laundry about it and you will be surprised.

MIGHTY BABE LEADS CIRCUIT

Falk of Chicago Second in League—Hornsby Leads in National

CHICAGO, July 26 (By the Associated Press).—Pitting his 29th homer to the open spaces, Babe Ruth today is the leader for the 1924 home-run honors in the American league. Ruth, although dropping five points, still leads the procession in batting with an average of .373 with 144 hits, Chicago, reaching second with 365. Goslin of Washington is batting third with .356, followed by Ty Cobb of the Tigers with .346. Next in the list is Jameson of Cleveland with .344, while Earl Sheeley of the White Sox is sixth with .342. The averages include games of Wednesday.

Heavy slugging by Leo Hartnett, peppery young catcher of the Chicago Cubs, is the outstanding feature among the batters of the National league. While George Kelly of the Giants was gathering six homers in a week, Hartnett collected five. As a result, Hartnett passed the Giants' slugger and is trailing Jack Fournier of the Dodgers for the home run honors. His total is 15. Fournier is leading with 22.

There has been variance among the batting leaders. Rogers Hornsby, the Cardinal star, is comfortably lodged in first place with .412. His nearest competitor is Wheat of Brooklyn, who is hitting .350, a gain of five points, over his mark a week ago. Hornsby, however, gained 11 points.

GAME TUESDAY
East Ends vs. Americans.
THURSDAY
Pawtucket A.A. vs. Bellevues.

In a City Twilight League which nearly terminated in a riot on the South common when Umpire Barker Curtin didn't call 'em to the liking of several fans, the league-leading Bellevues defeated the Americans by a score of 10 to 6 last night. Despite the alleged misbehavior of the base umpire, the game was the most exciting of the year. The Americans, playing at full strength, made the first time this season, three men a score into the wigan of Tommy Fleming, but terrific hitting on the part of the Bellevue players, and a pickoff edge by Hankus Hankus Garrity, took them out of several tight holes and kept them in first place in the league standing.

The contest was replete with features. In the field, Parky Darter, Freddie Crowe and Ducky Bradbury were the stars, each making several big league stops and catches, while the scintillating batsmen were Ennis, Crowe, Bradbury and Carr, who slugged the pitcher three bases each, and Franko Partell, who connected for a double.

The natural rivalry of the two teams became evident in the opening frame, when both clubs scored runs. The Bellevues were first at bat and before they were retired, three men had crossed the rubber at home plate. Ralph Jenkins, first man up, singled sharply into right field and was pushed home on Partell's sacrifice. Successive hits by Pop Williams, Abe Buckley and Joe O'Brien accounted for a triplet of markers, with Herb Mulho the victim of the assault.

Notwithstanding this early lead, the Americans went to bat and scored four times. Ennis took hold of a groover and sent the ball flying to deep right field for a triple. Freddie Gleason received a wicked sock on the temple and went down. There were many in the stands who felt Freddie would not get up, so terrific was the blow, but he was up in a jiffy and remained in the game. Francis Reagan was sent in to run for him, and scored with Ennis on Parky Daley's single. Barron walked and two more runners registered on O'Brien's smug: to right center.

Both sides tightened up after this juncture and there was no further scoring until the fourth when the Bellevues got to Mulho with a vengeance and sent him to the showers. Five runs were scored in the frame, and John Peter's yanked Herbie in favor of big Wayne Peterson.

Freddie Crowe's beautiful triple to deep left field accounted for the American run in the fourth. The belt scored Ennis who had previously walked. The final run on the loser's side came in the fifth on Sullivan's single and Eddie Carr's eighty-three-paw walk into the left field corner.

In the sixth, Garrity gave a superb exhibition when he struck out the third batter and retired the side with three men occupying the sacks. It was in this frame also that the Bellevues strenuously objected to the attitude of Umpire Curtin in giving his decisions on the bases. Curtin remained on the job, however, and the game went by the boards when the Bellevues retired twice in their last time at bat and sewed up the pastime. A hit

Sturdy Stenographer Barred

Above, gentlemen, you see Miss Angel Firpo, the "Wild Boar of the Pampas," and Miss Blanca Lourdes, the "Queen of the Jungle." As a result, the presence of the young lady in Firpo's entourage, the wild boar was almost knocked out before he landed on our fair shores.

Her passport was to Havana, but she told immigration officials that she was Senor Firpo's secretary.

When she displayed an expansive ignorance of stenographer's postcodes and dashes she was sent to Ellis Island. So was Firpo.

Later they both were released when the young lady promised to take the first boat to Havana. She is almost six feet tall and weighs more than 150, according to the nimble photographer.

BAY STATE GOLFER IS MAINE CHAMP

POLAND SPRING, Me., July 25.—Karl Mosser of Bangor, former Massachusetts amateur golf champion, kept the "open" amateur championship of Maine in the Bay State possession by beating William W. Ricker, Jr., of the Maine club, 5 and 4, yesterday in their final round match here. Mosser finished the first 18 holes with only a margin of 1 hole in his favor. With three in the hole, Ricker won the title last year.

Paul V. Sawyer of Boston was the winner of the second flight, beating Sidney Noyes, a 14-year-old scrapper from the Aubrey Country club, 4 and 3. Sawyer also is a youthful golfer and was compelled to play consistently all the way around, because his rival seldom was above par figures.

Mosser played brilliantly at times yesterday afternoon against Ricker. On both morning and afternoon rounds he scored deuces on the short 13th hole, but in the afternoon it was good only for a half, because Ricker also was in the hole after reaching the green from the tee.

Walter Hagen and Joe Kirkwood will be here next week for an exhibition match.

All Year

NEW YORK, July 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—The race for inter-sectional honors in the two major leagues is close, with the western contingents of both circuits having a slight advantage over the eastern quartets at the close of the east versus west series that ended Thursday. This situation is reflected in the standing of the clubs in both leagues, which shows two eastern and two western clubs in the first and second division in each.

The recent series between the Yankees and the Tigers at the Yankee stadium involved not only first place in the American league but inter-sectional supremacy as well. As a result of the Tigers winning three of the four contests the western clubs were unable to return to their homes with a margin of one game over the eastern four on the season's inter-sectional titles. The count stood 31 to 29 in the National league, the western clubs had an advantage of five games due to the good work of the Chicago Cubs in the first two inter-sectional series of the season. The standing up to yesterday was: West won 89; East won 84.

EMERALDS DEFEATED BY ST. JOSEPH CADETS

The teams of the Junior Twilight league are now producing the most exciting games in the city. As this is becoming known, people are crowding to the North common diamond. Last evening, the largest crowd of the season saw the plucky, hard fighting Emeralds go down to defeat before the invincible St. Joseph Cadets, the topers of the league.

In the second round, with the score even, 0 to 0, Lamb, Emerald third sacker, slipped on an error and allowed three Cadets to cross the dish. In the third, the soldier boys ran two more tallies to the one collected by their opponents. The Cadets dropped into their old stride and in the next two circles got two and one runs, respectively.

However, in the sixth and seventh, the boys in green made a strong bid for final honors when they ran up two counts per inning. But the rally had been slow in starting and they could not overcome the three run handicap of the unlikely second. The score:

KANSAS WAS ROCKY WHEN LUIS SOCKED

NEW YORK, July 25.—The good Rocky Kansas has decided scruples against being presented to his public in the role of a human chopping block.

Placing unwarranted faith in a treacherous memory, the writer announced in these columns recently that the good Rocky Kansas was harder than a Coney Island water, and twice as tough.

The writer, professed to a modicum of enthusiasm at Luis Vicentini's feat in knocking out the good Rocky, and with characteristic inaccuracy, added that it was the first time the Buffalo Italian had ever scored his front teeth in the resin.

Now comes the good Rocky himself to make what virtually amounts to a tramp out of the writer.

"Willie Jackson of Philadelphia bounced me up and down in the ring so many times back in my younger days that I thought he was introducing me to a new kind of game," admits the good Rocky.

"Benny Leonard is credited with dropping me in our first fight," continues the good Rocky, "but it wasn't the real McCoy. I needed a rest and the nine seconds I spent on the floor was the only way I could get it."

These revelations will at least keep the records straight. Of greater importance is the admission by the good Rocky that Vicentini hit him harder than either Jackson or Leonard, or anybody else for that matter.

"Any time you get hit on the point of the chin you feel it," confesses the good Rocky. "I felt it when Mr. Jackson hit me. Likewise when Mr. Leonard hit me. But I did not feel it the next day, or the day after, whereas I still feel the effect of Mr. Vicentini's kick."

The good Rocky denies that he was hit by a lucky punch, as some of the experts wrote after the fight. "It was, however, lucky, for me that he did not hit any harder."

RUTH'S NEMESIS HAS ONE WEAKNESS

BY BILLY EVANS
Southpaw Herb. Pruett of the St. Louis Browns, occupies a unique position in major league ball.

The possessor of the most deceptive delivery in the American League, possibly in either league, Pruett is unable to win a regular berth.

Christy Mathewson made the fade-away delivery famous. Other pitchers have used it to advantage, among them Pruett.

Few southpaws have ever used such a style delivery, possibly that is why it is so effective with Pruett.

The fade-away to major league players is just what the name implies. The ball comes up to the batsman in a leisurely manner and then literally seems to fade away.

This type delivery is accomplished best with just ordinary speed. Properly timed, the ball drops away from the batsman as it reaches the plate, much after the manner of a spitball.

Slight of stature, Pruett lacks a fast ball that is up to the major league standard. His curve ball is fair. Therefore he is compelled to rely almost entirely on his fade-away.

The fade-away to be effective must be well pitched. When broken over the heart of the plate it is not nearly so deceptive as when the pitcher works the corners.

The batsman looks easy to hit. The batsman, impatient to knock the ball out of the lot, swings lustily. That method of hitting works right into the hands of the fade-away artist.

In perhaps 50 per cent of the cases the fade-away, properly pitched, is a half if the batsman can refrain from swinging at it.

Incidentally the constant throwing of such a type ball is mighty hard on the arm. Waiting out the pitcher makes the task doubly difficult. Lacking a fast ball, Pruett, the possessor of the most deceptive delivery in the majors, has found the going very rough. The players invariably wait him out.

You simply can't hit what you can't see," is the compliment that Babe Ruth pays Pruett's fade-away.

"When I start swinging at it the old ball seems to vanish in the air. The fact that Pruett struck out Ruth 14 of the first 16 times Babe faced him is proof why the home-run king has so much respect for the slender southpaw.

Give Pruett a fast ball like Walter Johnson and he would be practically unbeatable.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The Giants met defeat yesterday, the Cardinals embossing a 13 to 5 victory on the National league records. Rogers Hornsby, the leading cluster in the National league, went home without a hit, the only Cardinal who failed to connect safely in the nine innings.

McGraw threw his port-sider, Jack Bentley, at the Cards in the opening stanza, but after one inning Ryan went in for two innings. He retired in favor of Maun, who was taken out in the sixth to allow Terry to swing a bat for him. Then Walter Hutzinger was dispatched to the mound. But the damage was done and the Giants retired defeated 13 to 5.

Bill Killifer's Cubs had a chance to gain a notch on the Giants but allowed the lowly Phils to sneak the win with a lead of 6 lengths, 10 to 4. Jeff Pfeiffer tossed his first assignment for the Pirates yesterday and successfully turned back the Braves, 2 to 1. Brooklyn and Cincinnati postponed their encounter due to rain.

Poloists Prepare for Invasion

By N.E.A. Service

NEW YORK, July 26.—America is getting ready to resist another invasion by the English polo crack, scheduled for September. It is generally conceded that the fight this year will be harder than ever.

For one thing the English four is said to be unusually formidable. Secondly, the American squad has been performing far below its usual speed and effect.

As these lines were being written the makeup of the American four was still a matter of debate. It seems most

Billy Evans SAYS

Many star ball players do not take the full advantage of their possibilities. Often speed merchants going down to first are poor base runners. After they reach the initial sack.

This usually is due to the fact that they lack the knack of getting a big lead, breaking with the pitch. Failure to perfect a deceptive slide is also a handicap.

Certain pitchers with great natural ability throw fast to the end and try to win through sheer power rather than mixing a little thought with their pitching.

All of which prepares the way for the first of this story, the doings of Babe Ruth. He deals with Ruth the bunter rather than Ruth the slugger.

Due to the fact that Ruth is regarded as a right-field hitter, the infielders assume a peculiar defensive style in playing for him.

The first baseman is well on the right field foul line, the second baseman shifts almost to the spot of the first sacker, the shortstop stands near second, while the third sacker is well on the way to short.

The outfield shifts along the same lines. The pitcher as expected to keep the ball inside to Ruth in order that the defense may get the proper break.

With the third baseman playing deep and well over to short, the situation is made to order for a bunt by Ruth, if he can lay the ball down the third base line.

Incidentally any fly to left field that is short is certain to fall safe.

For several years Ruth has faced just such a situation. An infield defense all out of position to handle a bunt.

Occasionally Ruth would try to lay down a bunt, failing to do so, would go back to his slugging swing.

This season the bunt has become as much a part of the Ruth batting system as the home run swing. I have already seen him bunt out at least a dozen perfectly placed bunts this year.

I have often wondered why more players, noted for their hard hitting ability, didn't go in for the bunt. It is dangerous to play close for such players. With the third baseman back, most any good bunt is a base hit.

In golf the sinking of a long putt carries none of the thrill that goes with a long ball from the tee.

That possibly explains why so few of the hard hitters go in for the bunting game.

work of the players has failed to meet the critics' fancy.

Mainly, criticism is directed against the players for their tendency to individual play, rather than unit maneuvers. This is hard to understand, in view of the fact that most of the American victories of the past were

CHICAGO'S COMEBACK AS RACING CITY

CHICAGO, July 26.—This city is back on the racing map, a big league city in the turf game after nearly 20 years of dormancy. From a modest start two years ago with a short fall meeting the popularity of horse racing in the metropolis of the middle west has been proved. The present 52-day meeting at Hawthorne proves the fact that Chicago, once the great racing center in the country, is still for the thoroughbred.

Huge crowds are turning out. On Derby day 40,000 fans crowded every corner of the old West Side track to see Black Gold, 3-year-old champion, win from Ladkin, pride of Maj. August Belmont's stable.

Presiding Steward Joseph A. Murphy is the man who put racing back on the map in Chicago. Two years ago he attempted a two weeks' meeting in October. The class of horses was of mediocre variety. A longer meeting last summer, with such stars as Saratoga and In Memoriam winning feature races, awakened interest in a big, lively way.

"The most encouraging thing about this year's meeting," says Judge Murphy, "is the type of crowd that we are attracting at Hawthorne. It used to be said that horse racing and general lawlessness went hand in hand. But that is not true today. Chicago's biggest business men and Chicago's leading society women through the clubhouse lawn daily."

WIN TOSS IN TENNIS EXPERT ADVISES

BY MERCER BEASLEY

The A-to-Z Man of Tennis

Tennis ranks with the scientific sports, with billiards, golf and other forms of baseball. Very frequently the most important matches are decided by eye-balls margins. Making the most of the "ball of the toss" is a seemingly unimportant detail, some times starts a player out on the road to victory.

Not enough attention is given to the possibility of winning the toss. Yet it has its advantages no less than those in football when a captain calls the toss of the coin correctly and elects to defend the goal with the wind in his favor.

In tennis I think the advantages are even greater. Unquestionably the player who wins the toss also wins the first "break." He has the choice of service or court, in the cup matches some pretty keen thinking is done on this point.

If a player has it figured that he can break through his opponent's serve on the first game and win his own service on the second game he will let the other fellow serve first. In most cases, however, the toss winner serves first. The server is usually the attacker and it is up to him to show what he can do.

This may give you an idea of the value of calling the toss correctly. Say it is a close match, and each player has won his service up to four-all in games. The service then would be in the hands of the player who won the toss, and if he won that game he would be in the lead and within one game of winning the set.

This is an important advantage as any tennis player knows. It means that the leading player can afford to take all the chances, whereas his opponent must adopt the most cautious and careful sort of program.

Give a little thought to the toss the next time you call "tough" or "smooth." It means something more than just starting the match off.

QUESTIONS

1. At the opening of the eighth inning, the home team is leading by the score of 2 to 0. The first man up for the visitors knocks a home run. The next man goes out. The next three batters get on. With the score 2 to 1 in favor of the home team, one out and the bases filled, the pitcher is taken out. As a result of errors by the third baseman and second baseman, coupled with a base on balls by the relief pitcher, three runs cross the plate before the side is retired. When the home team goes to bat for the last of the eighth, the visitors are leading, 4 to 2. At this stage of the game the home club starts a rally that nets six runs. The final result is 3 to 4 in favor of the home team. Which pitcher is credited with winning the game?—J. J. M.

2. The bases are full, two outs, two strikes and three balls on the batter. As the pitcher starts his wind-up, all runners start advancing. Catcher drops third strike, runner on third crosses the plate but catcher is able to throw batsman out at first, retelling the side. Does the run count?—D. O. D.

Answers

1. Relief pitcher is credited with winning the game. Runner who scored on eighth inning was put on the bases by pitcher who started game. Had final score been 4 to 2, pitcher who started game would have been charged with defeat. Since home team put over winning runs during tenure of relief pitcher he gets credit for the victory.

2. Run does not count. No run can score on a play in which the batsman fails to reach first base for the third out of the inning.

TRAVERS SHOWS UP MARSTON'S BETTER

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Your favorite sports page carried the news recently that Max Marston and Jerry Travers were beaten by Jess Sweetser and Francis Outmet 1 up in an exhibition foursome. It was the first time Travers' name had appeared in the headlines in years.

Travers was the star of the match. His medal score of 74 was low among the four stars. It was eight strokes better than the score of Marston, present national champion.

Travers is one of the immortals of American golf. He is the only American with five national championships to his credit. Four times he won the amateur and once the open. Travers was the last amateur to win the national twice in succession. This was in 1912 and 1913. And in doing this he was equalling his own record, for in 1907 and 1908 he won the amateur consecutively.

It was in 1915 that he won the open. That was his last gesture to the big leagues of golf. In subsequent tournaments he was an inconspicuous figure. Finally he dropped out of active play entirely, joining his celebrated fellow townsman, Walter Travis, in semi-seclusion.

Travers was one of golf's greatest putters. This was perhaps the strongest feature of his game. No champion was ever less sure of himself off the tee. Travers had little confidence in his wooden clubs. Frequently he discarded them entirely and drove with cleft or driving iron. All during the 1913 tournament he used an iron off the tee, but that didn't prevent him from winning the championship for the fourth time.

Concentration was another Travers virtue. He recognized the importance of this essential and practiced it always. Francis Outmet still remembers his first match with Travers. It was in the 1913 amateur championship. Outmet, then a youngster, sought to be affable and opened up a running fire of conversation. Travers ignored him beautifully. Not

OLYMPIC CYCLING MEET UNDERWAY

MUNICIPAL OLYMPIC VELODROME, Vincennes, France, July 26 (By Associated Press).—The two day meet of the Olympic cycling competition, in which 21 nations are entered, opened here today. Heavy showers during the morning kept the attendance down, but the weather cleared just before the meet was to start and there were about 10,000 spectators in the stands when the first ride got under way.

The program today called for the elimination heats for the 1000 metre sprint, 12 heats in all, with the winner alone qualifying for the quarter-finals. The men making the best showing in the first round will also have another opportunity to qualify later, when six additional heats are put on.

William S. Penn, Jr., and Ignatius Grankowski entered for the United States in the sprints. Grankowski ultimately decided not to compete in the 1000 metres and Mazarrac of Holland had a walk-over in the seventh heat, in which Grankowski was drawn, the American's entry being scratched.

FEAST OF STE. ANNE OBSERVED TODAY

Today, the Feast of Ste. Anne, was observed in the Catholic churches of the city with special masses and devotions. At St. Jean the Baptist church the members of Ste. Anne's sodality received Holy Communion in a body at a high mass celebrated at 8 o'clock.

Following the mass a short instruction was given by Rev. J. Laframboise, O.S.B., of Ottawa who is conducting a novena at that church. The novena will close tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at which time new members will be received into the sodality.

The members of Ste. Anne's sodality of St. Louis parish also received communion in a body at a mass celebrated at 8 o'clock at St. Louis church by Rev. J. B. Labossiere, pastor of the church.

Masses were also celebrated in honor of the feast at the Immaculate Conception, St. Peter's and the Sacred Heart church.

FIRPO IN SHAPE

Newspaper men who saw Luis Firpo the day he arrived in New York to begin training for his coming fight with Harry Wills say the South American carries little surplus weight.

Once did he speak to the Boston Star. Outmet was badly beaten. "I didn't know what to make of it at the time," said Outmet, "but the experience was destined to be of invaluable aid to me later. It was the means of teaching me the importance of concentration."

News of the players has failed to meet the critics' fancy.

AT RIALTO THEATRE COMMENCING TOMORROW

In transferring "This Freedom" to the screen, a virile human melodrama of tremendous popular appeal has been fashioned from the best-seller by A. S. M. Hutchinson, author also of "If Winter Comes."

"This Freedom" is the tale of an ambitious young Irishman just arrived in this country, bent on making his way to fame and fortune—no matter how. Johnny Hines seemed made to order for the part of Terry O'Toole. This picture is a delightful change

field and rapidly advances to a position of authority. But her womanliness cannot be brushed aside by the fact that she has "the mind of a man" and occupies a man's place in the business world. She marries a young attorney but insists upon keeping her independence and leaves her home in the care of trained servants. Because the home is "organized," Rosalie thinks that her duty is fulfilled. She is unable to spend very much time at home because of her business duties.

From this point on the screen story moves rapidly through a series of dramatic incidents which carry the theme forward to its tremendous climax. Rosalie sees tragedy enter her home, when her son and daughter are disgraced, owing to what she believes her neglect of the children in their early youth. In her hour of defeat she calls herself, "With what sum obtained I this freedom?"

Denison Clift, an American director, filmed the picture in England on the sites selected by the author. Fay Compton, who scored a success in the stage play "Secrets," has the leading role in this production.

"After a Million," with Kenneth MacDonald, another new-to-Lowell picture, will also open its run on Sunday and will be shown the following four days. The usual short subjects include an excellent comedy and a news item.

SCENE FROM "CONDUCTOR 1492" AT MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE STARTING SUNDAY

Johnny Hines in "Conductor 1492" is the feature attraction at the Merrimack Square theatre for the first four days of the week, starting tomorrow. In this picture Johnny surpasses all of his other productions and is the nearest thing to perfection that the versatile comedian has ever produced.

"Conductor 1492" is the tale of an ambitious young Irishman just arrived in this country, bent on making his way to fame and fortune—no matter how. Johnny Hines seemed made to order for the part of Terry O'Toole. This picture is a delightful change from the ordinary run of films customarily shown at this theatre and provides a world of laughter and frolic of the pep variety.

Much credit is due the admirable supporting cast, which includes such favorites as Doris May, Dorothy Burns, Michael Dink, Robert Cuth, Dan Mason, Fred Esmeilton and Byron Stone. Direction is under Charles Hines, Johnny's brother, and Frank Griffin.

The complete bill is as follows: "Conductor 1492," "How to Educate a Wife," Comedy, "Uncle Sam," Weekly News Reel.

PARIS, July 26.—The marriage of Barney Baruch, Jr., to Lois Wilson, the film actress, whose greatest success was in "The Covered Wagon," is to take place in the immediate future, although both are keeping a systematic silence on their plans. Rumors of their engagement have been floating about Paris since Miss Wilson arrived here a week ago. She has been seen constantly with young Mr. Baruch in restaurants and cabarets, sometimes accompanied by the elder Mr. Baruch.

At a luncheon to screen folks yesterday, Miss Wilson was asked to confirm or deny the report, but she only smiled and said she would rather not discuss it. Mr. Baruch likewise grinned and remained silent.

PATTERNED AFTER OLD TYPE FRENCH HOME

Plan No. 6021.

The architectural treatment of this home, with its low sloping roofs, has a decided leaning to the old type of the French country home. There are six good rooms, and the house is practically square. It is planned to be built of cement blocks, laid up in random courses, plain face, while the roof is treated with large shingles. The dining and living rooms are practically one, giving a roomy effect. The upstairs hall arrangement is ingenious, considering that it takes up little room, yet opens on three bedrooms and bath. Each bedroom is provided with cross ventilation, and cross light. The kitchen is compact, with plenty of cupboard space, and it receives light from two sides. This house can be placed on a 45-foot lot, and is designed to face east or south. For other facings, the plans can be reversed. The cost to build this house, including heating, plumbing, lighting, painting, ready to live in, but not including wall decoration, should range between $8000 and $9000. In certain localities where costs are high, the highest figure quoted would be too low. In other localities, the lowest figure quoted would be more than sufficient. The range of $1000 is given to cover differences in the way the house is built and how thoroughly it is equipped and completed.

Consult Us Before You Build

A rent receipt is not much of an asset. It is the written permission of the landlord for the occupancy of a few square feet of floor space, for about thirty days,—after that it is valueless.

Why Not Build a Home and Be Your Own Landlord?

The interest on the investment, plus taxes and repairs, certainly would be less than the rent demanded for such a Home as you desire, or the landlord could not afford to invest his money in property to rent. On the other hand, the value of the feeling of ownership of a Home, a safe refuge for yourself and family, and a place to entertain your friends, cannot be estimated.

class set of building on the premises, the house being of one and one-half story type with seven rooms.
The property is sold on behalf of the resident owner, Arthur Delage. The grantees being Thomas E.
Chase and Margaret E. Chase of Billerica. Mr. and Mrs. Chase purchase for a home.

parcel of land directly at the junction of Remington and Hurlburt streets in the heart of the Andover street section. The lot approximately 3500 sq. ft. and has a most extended outlook over the Longmeadow Golf links.
The transfer is negotiated on behalf of Mrs. Francis L. Burnham. The grantee being John A. Simpson, local
